ROGERS JUST CAN'T UNDERSTAND THIS WORLD COURT IDEA

(Special to The News)
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept. 7.—This world's court is up again. So many think it's great and some think it's terrible, and I am just one of the 50 per cent of our population who don't know what it is.

The more I read about both sides, the less I know about the middle. Each nation that goes into it has its understanding with a reservation that anything the court does shall be binding except in cases pertaining to them.

But everybody is agreed on one thing and that is if we really try it, it would be a crowning achievement to finish out the great career of Mr. Elihu Root, a great man, and splendid statesman. Others think we could pay him our obligation in a cheaper way.

Yours,
WILL.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Pa New observed a neat automobile house on a motor car the other day from Kansas. It was a bright lemon color with black letters and stood out like a lighthouse in a fog.

While the rain of last night wasn't very heavy, it nevertheless laid the dust and made conditions a little better about the district. Indicates are good for a real rain, according to weather forecasts, as several hard rains are reported in nearby states.

Fall church programs are getting under way, as vacation season is over. Increased attendance at the city churches is anticipated at the services Sunday.

Another effect of the dry weather was related to Pa New this morning. The ground is so dry that the farmers can't get their fall plowing done, a farmer said.

Driving a horse and wagon into town with country produce these days means that the driver must get up early in the morning. It would appear, Pa New noted a wagon loaded with produce this morning on which a rear lantern was still burning.

Two bridges have gone through in Lancaster county in the past few weeks, when auto trucks went over them. Immediate inspection of every bridge in that county has been ordered. How about Lawrence county bridges? Are they all O. K.?

Next Saturday is the final day for registration of New Castle voters.

A local fisherman related to Pa New recently that the fish were being driven out of the Shenango river into the Nesbannock because of the acid condition in the Shenango. Which probably accounts for the reports being received of large catches of fish in the Nesbannock creek inside the city limits.

According to reports being received at The News, the woman fliers who went over New Castle on Labor Day and reported there were no signs to guide her, must have been too far from the heart of the city. There are numerous signs on roofs here to guide fliers.

The steam shovel from the excavation on North Jefferson street had some difficulty getting through Cochran street, and in turning the corner or North street, it was stuck. The machine under the electric wires. The tree at the corner of North and Cochran was in the way of the shovel.

Charge Democrats With Conspiring Against Tariff

Republican Spokesmen Claim Democrats Hope To Force Tariff Into 1930 Elections

SENATOR SMOOT HURLS CHARGE

Chief Aim Of Tariff Program Is To Help Agriculture By Giving Protection

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Although a week-end armistice had been declared in the tariff war, administration leaders today opened fire on the Democratic insurgent coalition, which joined forces in opposition to the new tariff bill.

The Republican spokesmen charged Democrats with conspiring to prevent passage of the tariff at the special session, so it could be injected into the congressional elections of 1930. They also contended the coalition leaders had postponed their fight against the new rates, because of a presentiment of defeat.

Senator Reed Smoot (R) of Utah, chairman of the Senate finance committee and senatorial "parent" of the bill, charged the Democrats with "playing politics" with the bill.

"The Democrats are trying to defeat the measure at this time or to block its enactment now because they want to postpone its passage until just before the congressional elections of next year," said Smoot. "They want to delay enactment of the bill so they can do a lot of enlisting howling in the campaign next year, before the good effects of the bill can be demonstrated to the public. If this bill would pass at the special session it wouldn't be an issue in 1930 because it would greatly aid in stabilizing prosperity, especially for the 'little fellows' in business."

To Aid Agriculture
"This measure was drafted to help agriculture by giving it greater tariff protection."

CONTEST SELECTION OF 'MISS AMERICA'

(International News Service)
BALTIMORE, Sept. 7.—Dissatisfied with a decision naming Miss Lillian Andrus, 21, of Buckeye Lake, Ohio, "Miss America" at a beauty contest at Carlon's Park here most of the 47 "beauties" intend to hold a second contest at a downtown hotel today.

Miss Andrus was selected by five judges last night after Earl Carroll, noted arbiter of feminine pulchritude, had gracefully withdrawn one of them. The disappointed girls and their sponsors from various sections of the country immediately filed a protest charging that Miss Andrus was a "ringer" and should not have been allowed to enter.

It was also asserted that James A. Carlin, proprietor of the park also runs an amusement park at Buckeye Lake and Miss Andrus came here at his suggestion.

Carroll's comment was: "No Miss America was picked. This wasn't a representative showing. What the judges did was to pick the prettiest girl in Carlin's dance pavilion."

Most of the entrants were from Pennsylvania with Kentucky and New York next.

Sixteen Student Nurses Begin Training Here At Jameson Hospital

Coinciding with the opening of the new Jameson Memorial hospital to patients today comes the announcement that the largest class of student nurses ever admitted at one time has been accepted, and the young ladies, 16 in number, are starting their training today.

Not all of them are from New Castle or Lawrence county. The fame of the new hospital has carried to other counties and a number of them are from other cities. The list includes:

Mary Margaret Adams, Vera Esther Allen, Mildred Elizabeth Barris, Zelma Lydia Foster, Lucy Louise Jones, V. May Reamer, Erma Louise Sontum, Helen Eleanor Swisher, Gwendolyn Stroup Stephenson, all of New Castle; Dorothy Irene Donnell, New Wilmington; Elsie Flora Grieder, Edinburg; Alice Marie Patterson, Pittsburgh; Helen Marie Ralston, Jamestown, Pa.; Catherine Mae Ueber, Chicago; Gladys Stevenson, Akron, O.; and Isabelle Gibson, Slippery Rock.

The present class of student nurses, which was transferred today to the new hospital, includes the Misses Brotherton, C. Miller, Dickson, Peter, George, V. Miller, Braatz, Stevenson, Reed, West, Young, T. Brown, Kidson, Brodbeck, McConnell and Blackford.

JEALOUSY CAUSE OF LOVE TRAGEDY

(International News Service)
YORK, Pa., Sept. 7.—"If I can't have you, then no one else will!" Punctuating his warning with three staccato pistol shots, William Schweitzer, 24, yesterday shot and perhaps fatally wounded Florence E. Ramer, 25, a visiting nurse, on the street here.

"If I can't have you . . ."
And now he can't.

A posse captured Schweitzer last night. There was no resistance, for Schweitzer was dead—dead in the car with which he had followed Miss Ramer—dead from the same number of bullets, fired from the same gun, as he had fired point blank into the body of the girl who had spurned his advances.

Killed Himself.
Schweitzer's body was found at West's dam, four miles from here. He had committed suicide, Coroner L. C. Zech said. Police believe the man drove to the scene of self-destruction immediately after wounding Miss Ramer, reloaded the revolver and in a moment of grim irony, sent as many bullets crashing through his chest as had ripped their way into Miss Ramer's body.

Police say letters have been found in Schweitzer's room indicating that he and the York nurse were friendly. A love poem to the girl was among the letters. Schweitzer was married but was divorced last June.

Miss Ramer is in a serious condition at York hospital, suffering from an operation performed after the shooting. Three bullets had taken effect in her body. Her recovery is doubtful.

" . . . Then no one else will."

Report Alligator Seen In Swamp

B. R. & P. Train Crew Reports One Seen Near 'Cement Dam'

Has anybody lost their alligator? Either that or the swamps around New Castle must be the living room of alligators.

Had only one man seen the alligator in question, there might be a suspicion that he had been in Canada on a vacation, but in this case five members of a B. R. & P. railroad crew saw it. The incident was reported by Pete McGinty, a conductor on the road.

Friday afternoon while shuffling cars near the cement dam, below the Lehigh Portland Cement plant, the crew saw a long black alligator crawl out of the swamp. Before they could capture him he had gone back in.

It may be that a pet alligator is A. W. O. L. or it may be that some of the Florida alligators are spending the summer up North. Anyway, there is an alligator in the swamp out around the cement dam.

Ship-Builders Are Warned By Herbert Hoover

President Threatens Legal Action To Halt Propagandizing Against Naval Reduction

CAPITAL STARTLED BY ANNOUNCEMENT

Wilsonian Flare Noted In Denunciation By Hoover; No Names Are Mentioned

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—President Hoover's threat to seek legal action against ship-building corporations which propagandize against naval reduction created a sensation in Washington today, both in and out of Congress.

While Mr. Hoover named no names, he referred to the $250,000 salary suit which Wm. B. Shearer, a so-called naval expert, has brought against three large concerns on the ground that he represented them at the abortive Geneva Naval Conference and elsewhere in opposing naval disarmament. The concerns sued by Shearer were the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, the Newport News Shipbuilding Corporation, and the American Brown Boveri Corporation.

There was a Wilsonian flare in Mr. Hoover's denunciation of such business.

"This propagandist," said the president, "has, during the past few years, organized zealous support for increased armament and has been a severe critic of all efforts of our government to secure international agreement for the reduction of naval arms, which include activities at the Geneva conference, and opposition to the movement I have initiated in the past three months."

"Every American has the right to express his opinion and to engage in open propaganda if he wishes, but it is obviously against public interest for those who have financial interest in, or may be engaged in contracts for the construction of naval vessels, secretly to attempt to influence public opinion or public officials by propaganda in favor of larger armaments, and attempt to defeat the efforts of the government in world limitation of such armaments or to employ persons for such purposes."

Orders Investigation
The president said he was having the attorney general look into the matter.

Shift Search For Air Transport To Grand Canyon Rim

Hundred Planes And Thousand Indians Hunt Missing T. A. T. Plane

COL. LINDBERGH ON WAY TO SCENE

Many Rumors Are Received But Plane And Passengers Not Located

(International News Service)
KINGMAN, Ariz., Sept. 7.—Arizona and Utah districts far to the north of Winslow, Ariz., search center, early today had become a new field for 100 scout planes seeking the lost air liner, City of San Francisco.

John Collins, general operating superintendent of the T. A. T., from his field base at Winslow, urged the "bare clean" of all yesterday's rumors and suddenly ordered a concentration of nearly 100 ships on the north rim of the Grand Canyon. Basis of the order to swing northward today was unannounced.

Indians Aiding
Winslow, Ariz., Sept. 7.—More than 1,000 Hopi and Navajo Indians were organized in small searching groups at dawn today to cooperate with airplanes scouring the territory south, east and west of the Grand Canyon for some trace of the T. A. T. air liner, City of San Francisco, missing since Tuesday with its eight occupants.

Official denial of all rumors that the wreckage of the plane had been sighted or that its struggling occupants had been located wandering in the pointed desert region was made by Transcontinental Air Transport executives last late night.

Extend Search
As a result the search today went forward on a broader scale with a fleet of thirty airplanes cooperating with the myriad land searchers. Thirteen naval planes and seventeen private ships roared away from the base here at dawn to cover the country between Kingman, Ariz., and Winslow, including the north rim of Grand Canyon.

Rumor upon rumor came from the uncivilized desert reaches yesterday and last night which told of the plane being sighted. Each one of these, however, was proven false when traced down by searchers in airplanes.

Report False
Bogdad, Calif., Sept. 7.—Santa Fe operators here early today said they had heard nothing of the reported discovery of the T. A. T. air liner, City of San Francisco in this district.

Push Inquiry In Vote Fraud At Pittsburgh

Attorneys Make Startling Announcement Of Names On Vote Lists That Don't Exist

GRAND JURY TO BE GIVEN FACTS

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7.—Attorneys who investigated the alleged phantom names on the voters lists here today were pushing their inquiry deeper as they prepared to submit the evidence uncovered for consideration of the district attorney and the Allegheny county grand jury at its next session.

Starting Charges
The startling charges were an outgrowth of the intense political activity which has followed in the wake of the three cornered race for the Republican majority nomination.

Opposing Malone are Mayor Charles H. Kline and Judge Richard E. Martin.

Following the announcement of the charges of illegal listing of fictitious voters, Martin asked District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner to submit the charges to a grand jury investigation, stating that the grand jury would investigate the charges "at specific instances of fraudulent assessments" were submitted to him.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

The progress was decidedly slow. It is surely a good efficient worker in its line but hardly a vehicle one would choose for a joy-ride or a world tour.
Suspicions of Pa Newc that it was fairly warm during last night were confirmed by the weather report this morning. According to U. S. Weather Observer B. F. Johnson, the minimum temperature during the past 24 hours was 55. Although the maximum yesterday was but 59, it seemed a lot warmer.
Pa Newc observed a group of youngsters in bathing at the Rosena Dam this morning, clad only in their birthday clothes. They were having an enjoyable time, entire unmolested.
The football season was officially opened for a number of school boys

this morning, one of the Pa Newc family observing a group with a brand new ball playing on the vacant area adjacent to the Central Fire department on South Jefferson street. They were entirely unimpressed of the fact that the plot is covered with plenty of stones, some of them of a good size, danger of a broken leg or arm being the farthest thought in their minds.
While plenty of concrete will be used in the construction of the new addition to the Lawrence Auto Co. garage addition, there will also be plenty of steel reinforcement. A great number of steel strips are arising on the site, neatly held together with steel ties. These will later be surrounded by concrete.

ORIGIN OF THE ANTI-TRADE WINDS, OR WESTERLIES
By ARTHUR DEY CARPENTER

When the vast rush of heated air ascends from off the equator, it spreads northward and southward toward the poles. But when it has passed the belts of high barometric pressure, having cooled, it descends. Still retaining its rapid rotary velocity picked up at the equator, it comes to planetary points in the northern and southern hemispheres, of less rotary velocity, so it necessarily rotates eastward in advance of the earth. Result: In the northern hemisphere, it becomes a wind blowing from the southwest, and in the southern hemisphere, a wind from the northwest. These are known as the anti-trade winds, or westerlies.

CLEVELAND TESTS REVEAL NEW PROBLEM

WHEN the latest standard planes of the United States Army and Navy met the free-for-all event at Cleveland to a commercial plane entered as a dark horse the defeat started a series of reverberations which may soon be heard in congress.

Our last military planes, if they are to be efficient, must have three great qualities. One lies in their armament. The second lies in their climbing power. The third lies in their speed. They were humiliated in the speed classic by a Travelair plane powered with a Wright engine, which is said to have covered one lap at 220 miles an hour and which won the race and set up a record of 194.9 miles an hour, despite the fact that the pilot missed one of the turning posts and had to fly back a mile to round it and prevent disqualification. All of this in a fifty-mile brush.

There has been considerable criticism of the military plane construction programme, based principally upon the contention that the craft decided upon the generally antiquated before the full supply is delivered. How that condition is to be avoided without hampering the orderly development of our Army and Navy air forces is a problem. One of the plans suggested, which is said to fit closely into the economy programme of President Hoover, is the spacing of the equipment schedule over a longer period of years, so that a smaller number would be purchased each year, thereby assuring a supply of the newest and most efficient planes. But this has the disadvantage of cutting down the available equipment of the first class.

Few of our great mechanical developments are in a condition of such rapid progression as aviation, and yesterday's marvel is almost certain to be tomorrow's antique. The lesson of the Cleveland free-for-all seems a clear warning against too great a trend to standardization and stabilization in the Army and Navy planes.

PROVINCIALISMS

It was said of a famous geologist that if he were taken blindfolded to any spot in the United States he would know where he was by the feel of the native rocks. There are persons who could do the same by listening to the speech of the natives.

The 15 or 20 possible ways of pronouncing an r, the score or so ways of saying such words as "bird" and "father" indicate to linguists the region where a speaker learned English as definitely as the manufacturer's label tells where a piece of furniture was made.

New Yorkese, a dialect peculiar to the great metropolis, was made nationally famous by Governor Smith in his presidential campaign. Everyone is familiar with the Southern dialect, with the mountaineer's manner of speech and with the Yankee dialect of New England. Pennsylvania provides several dialects, the most famous of which is Pennsylvania Dutch. It is said that the "r's" dropped by the typical Southerner more than meet the demand of the Middle West which loves its "r's."

While any American can understand any of the country's many dialects after brief contact with it, their number graphically shows us to be a hodge-podge people with widely varied interests and many different backgrounds. It is small wonder congressmen so seldom are in accord.

CHAIN FARMING?

The one-man enterprise has had its day. Mergers and consolidations of properties and capital to effect the economies of unified management, increased buying power, production and selling efficiency are outstanding developments in modern business.

If mass production and group ownership work in industry and commerce, why not in agriculture? Perhaps they would, if given a trial. Indeed, it may develop that they are agriculture's only way out of her present difficulties.

Corporation farming would afford a distinct advantage over one-man farming in the matter of capitalization. Raising capital has been the farmer's greatest problem. Small acreage does not justify large investment in machinery, and production in proportion to the capital outlay is impossible. As a result, the individual farmer trying to keep up with the times finds himself swamped by overhead costs.

Truck farming is too dependent upon manual labor to be considered in this category. But already grain growers have caught the idea and chain farming is making its appearance.

TRAFFIC IN 1950

With an eye to traffic conditions in 1950, the Chicago plan commission is laying out a municipal system of super-highways. One item in this scheme is the city's outer drive, another is the system of lake front boulevards, and still another is a project for an elevated express motorway. The last named is to cost $20,000,000.

In 1910, Chicago had fewer than 13,000 automobiles. Last year it had approximately 430,000. By 1950 it is predicted that the city will have 900,000 automobiles as against a population of slightly more than 4,500,000. The construction program contemplated will require 20 years to complete and the super-highways will be needed as rapidly as they can be completed, in the estimation of engineers.

What is taking place in Chicago is largely true of every other city in the country. Any municipality which faces a traffic problem today cannot shut its eyes to the fact that that problem will be multiplied as time goes on. City streets do not widen of their own accord, nor is relief from congestion automatically provided. A solution of these difficulties is of vital import to every city in the land—Ohio State Journal.

Men who act serious all the time are considered funny.

There seems to be money in too many things besides working.

Every week has too many nights to stay up late on all of them.

Tell us your attitude toward the approach of Christmas, and we'll tell you how old you are.

There would be many more than humans in this fair land of ours if it were half as much fun taking it off as it is putting it on.

The dieting fad runs head-on into an impregnable obstacle supplied by the fact that corpulent and all other human beings like to eat the things that made corpulent persons that way.

The history class will not be asked to rise en masse and give its opinion on what would have happened 11 years ago if some individual had succeeded in hanging "renunciation of war" posters in every post office in this fair land.

The Street Not So Happy.

The President-Engineer.

Another Arab War.

The Cool Pacific.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1929, King Features Syn., Inc.)

Wall street wasn't so happy Thursday. Brokers' loans increased, which means nothing.

Then Mr. Babson, supposed to know about stocks, says they are going down. If you say that often enough you will be right some day.

There were cheerful spots. The Chatham-Phenix Bank added $4 to its dividend, $20 a share now. Not bad for a conservative bank.

The Seaboard National Bank gives stockholders $5 extra. Banking is a nice clean business, with call money worth 9 to 20 per cent.

Mr. Babson says the stock market will collapse like the Florida land boom. He was in that boom, and in fact is still in it. Perhaps that makes him nervous.

Meanwhile, figures show that 100 representative common stocks in August increased in value three thousand eight hundred and six million dollars.

No lack of nickels and dimes in America anyhow. Woolworth sales went up 12 per cent in August.

And there has been a great demand for copper. Sales in the week ending last Wednesday, totaled 102,000 tons, almost twice the previous high record for a week. That means industrial prosperity.

Also the number of freight cars loaded in the last fully recorded week, 1,129,333, beating all railroad records.

Uncle Sam, under the direction of his President-Engineer, is getting ready to spend one billion dollars and he couldn't do better.

Army engineers under Secretary Good's direction will survey the Central American jungles for the Nicaraguan canal.

If they do as well as the army engineers did in Panama, Uncle Sam will have another big feather in his cap.

It will take ten years and cost a billion, to build a canal through 183 miles of tropical, mountainous forests, from Atlantic to the Pacific.

The canal, which will pay for itself, will give Uncle Sam, with his Panama Canal, one of the most important waterways of the earth. That's engineering worth while.

Another war has broken, following wholesale murders in Palestine. Jews and Arabs are boycotting each other in business. The Anglo-Palestine Bank refuses bills of credit to Arabs. The latter boycott the Rutenberg Electrical Company and the Jewish bank.

British airplanes start real work with Arabs killed, and wounded. Their friends convinced that Mohammed is not as powerful as was supposed.

Here, you have been advised to visit Seattle, and without fail to stop at Denver, going or coming, to see Pike's Peak, F. G. Bonfills and other wonders.

New York City temperature on Wednesday was 94 degrees. Boston's was 97. The three coldest spots in the United States on that day were Seattle, Denver and San Diego.

Seattle was coldest of all with 70 degrees. Denver and San Diego 72.

This reminds you that California is a summer resort as well as a winter resort.

Temperature of San Diego, southern end of California, only 72 degrees. That's what the big Pacific Ocean does, absorbing summer's heat, giving it back in winter.

THE KING

He had a crown upon his head.
A robe upon his back.
Nor could one guess, to note his dress,
Men ever called him Jack.

He sat upon a golden throne.
And ruled with pomp and power.
Men stood about to carry out
His orders for the hour.

"Oh, worthy king!" men said to him.
"An audience we pray!"
The king inquired: "What is it, sirs,
That you come here to say?"

He rises and the organ sounds.
And vested choir boys sing:
"How glorious and victorious,
How gracious is our king!"

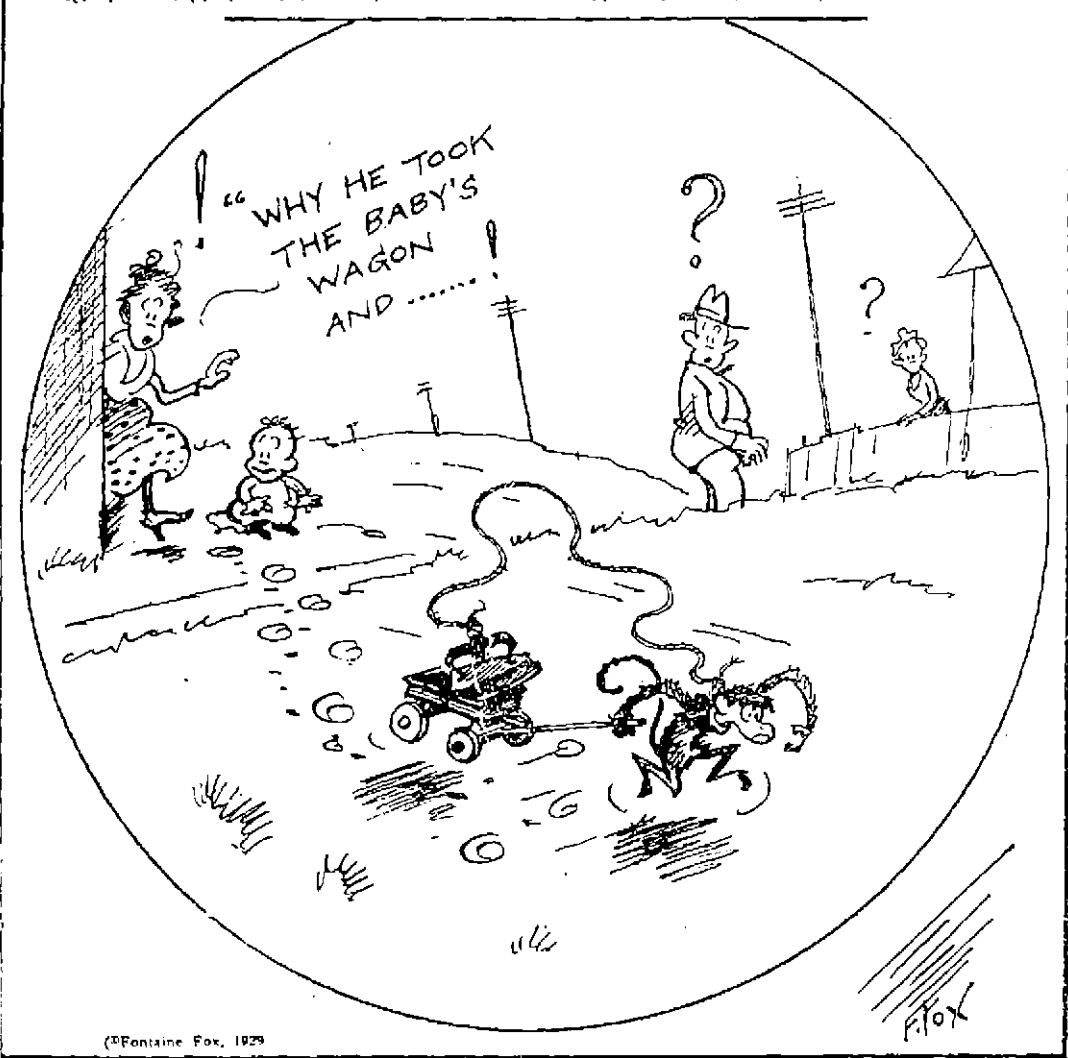

But bedtime comes to kings and men.
That hour no man can dodge.
His wife says: "Jack, I'm glad you're back;
I hate these nights for lodge."

A scenario made from a novel is fair enough. It puts in enough new stuff to make up for that left out.

We have noticed recently that quite a common accident with airplanes recently is to have their wings drop off while they are away up in the air. This must be something like having the ground drop out from under one.

Safety Smokes Novel Scheme In War Against Forest Fires

Plan Of Government Scientists Received With Interest But Press Is Frankly Skeptical About Practical Results

Fire-proofing of cigar and cigarette boxes as a preventive of forest fires, and a plan to burn matches in the dry season in the Pacific West, have been particularly damaging to forest fires, thus far, the losses being heavy. In many instances the damage is of such a nature that it will be felt for years—that is, in cases where watersheds have been burned over. The demonstrated disastrousness of forest fires should be sufficient to impel all to be careful with fire in forests. But, despite these earnest losses, there are still too many who go right on, handling fire with flagrant recklessness.

The advice of an old cattleman concerning matches, "should bring a thrill of remembrance to every one who ever trod the great pastures of the West, when a grass fire was a serious menace. The veteran said there would be few fires started by discarded, burned matches. If every one followed the range custom of breaking a match in two, before throwing it away, it's a safety trick whose simplicity is fully matched by its effectiveness. To break a match stick one has to apply pressure near both ends; if there is any fire left, it will make itself known to the breaker."

"Theoretically, self-extinguishing cigarettes may be all right in reducing the fire menace of burning fags carelessly tossed aside," according to the CHARLESTON DAILY MAIL. "But whether the smoking public will take to them in sufficient numbers to correct the condition they are designed to remedy is a question. The new cigarette—new only in equipment and not in its tobacco content—is described as having an 'inch-long cork tip, lined with water glass, which is an excluding sodium silicate, hitherto known chiefly to householders as a preservative for eggs.' This sounds a little too cumbersome to inspire belief that the present kind will be discarded immediately."

"How to impress smokers with the necessity for care," in the opinion of the SOUTH BEND TRIBUNE, "is a problem that bests those endeavoring to reduce the nation's fire loss. Cigarette manufacturers have been asked to cooperate in preventive campaign."

The fireproof tip apparently has considerable merit. Another suggestion is that fire warnings be printed on each cigarette. This may be less valuable. All smokers know that carelessness is dangerous, but carelessness is not decreasing."

Pointing out that in addition to the safety cigarette, the government has used similar treatment to reduce the damage from discarded matches, the GENEVA DAILY TIMES advises that "there is something that ought to interest all forest conservationists and smoke smokers," since it is "a safe, simple and yet very smart" suggestion that the scientific "observed and explicated" at great length. The Times feels that the vital question is "Now, who will put such reformed cigarettes and matches on the market?"

Delving further into the matter, the HARTFORD TIMES states that "a much more important cigarette improvement, from the standpoint of the consumer's convenience, is an ingenious chemical treatment of the tip, which when one rips it off, no contrived side of the paper containing either unpleasant odor or harmful fumes. Presumably," continues the Times "the principle here involved is simply the conversion of the cigarette into a safety match, temporarily. Science now having attended to both ends of the thing," continues the Times, "the middle of the cigarette should be more enjoyable than ever for those who still prefer to roll their own in old-time masculine fashion. The few will continue the habitual practice of lighting matches by the snap of a fingernail, and of stamping on ash and ember as the burning approaches its close."

"When and if the method is pronounced ready for adoption, it will be the duty of manufacturers and smokers alike to accept it to the end that the enormous fire losses now due to the nature of the cigarette and the carelessness of its users may be reduced to negligible proportions," asserts the PROVIDENCE BULLETIN. THE BUTTE MONTANA STANDARD, estimating the damage that is done by smokers, comments: "The smoker throws away his cigar butt or his cigarette, he knocks the ashes out of his pipe, and by these seemingly innocent habits, he causes an annual fire damage in the United States of $45,000,000. The number of fires he starts as a result of these strictly personal activities is estimated at 30,000 a year. Every one of these fires so caused has brought injury and loss to persons other than the smoker who carelessly threw his lighted tag away."

Observing results of disastrous forest fires in Idaho and Montana, the ATLANTA JOURNAL says: "Somebody dropped a lit cigarette, started a burning cigarette stub or lit the embers of a cigarette smoldering. Then a strong wind sprang up. The sequel is that an army of some 5000 men has been battling desperately to save forests which nature worked for ages to create, and which human carelessness will destroy in a day. Since last January, the Federal Bureau of Forestry has expended upward of a million dollars on emergency fire fighting alone. Meanwhile the losses in timber, the destruction of the bases of agricultural protection amount to many millions more."

Accepting as facts the self-extinguishing cigarette and the fireproof match, the LONG BEACH PRESS-RECORD says: "The fact that matches have not yet brought about fool-proof handling of cigarette stubs and lighted matches." That paper even

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

Sixty-fourth installment of a Diary kept by Lawrence A. Wilson of San Diego, California, upon his visit to Russia in 1928, published exclusively by The New Castle News.

September 2, 1929.

PATRIOTS
I have been entertained at the home of Vladimir Ivanoff. He is a Russian of the old school. He was one of the construction engineers during the building of the Siberian Railway, and also the South Manchurian Railway which was built originally by the Russians. He is one of those who are now in the vanguard of the Russian revolution, and has not allowed his soul to become embittered and warped by resentment. His delightful family of beautiful daughters (his wife died during the Revolution) are doing their best to get an education and to fit themselves to help other exiled Russians.

There is a staunch group of these exiles who are real patriots. They are sacrificing meeting the crisis. They are trying to hold their own against the new order. They are counseling that they neither thirst for the blood of Bolshevism nor surrender the hope of recovering Russia into more constructive hands. They are doing their utmost to train their children and to give them a substantial education of character so that they may be fitted to be the leaders of the new Russia which they think they see on the horizon. They are clinging steadily to the vision of their restored fatherland.

The members of this group are not the Charnovs. They are social revolutionaries. They themselves had cultivated the techniques of the Czar regime. Many of them were in the vanguard of the February Revolution. And then they saw the fruits of their pioneering revolution seized on by the Bolsheviks, who rose to power after the most dangerous work had been done. They were the ones who had the courage to not yet knowing where they would find it, they had a duty to do in the hands of the Bolsheviks, who were determined to shoot down all who protested the Czar's tyranny. They did not know that they would be shot down even as were these peasants who had come kneeling in the deep snows in the dead of winter to make their plea before the Czar in the Winter Palace for more livable conditions. Now these men, who had taken the initial risks, were given out of Russia by the Bolsheviks because they had conspired a more moderate revolution. But they are still clinging to their faith that the forces of moderation eventually may prevail.

FIGHTING SHIP PUT IN SERVICE

By HARRY WARD
International News Service Staff
NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Sept. 7.—While 200 Texans headed by Gov. Dan Moody, cheered lustily, the light cruiser Houston slid down the ways of the Newport News Ship and Dry Dock Corporation today after Mrs. Elizabeth Houston, of Houston, broke a bottle of water, taken from the Houston ship canal, against the steel bow of the nation's latest fighting ship.

Miss Mary Ellen Bute, of Houston, was maid of honor, and Miss Charlotte Williams, granddaughter of Gen. Sam Houston, first President of the Republic of Texas, United States Senator and Governor of Texas, was in the distinguished crowd that witnessed the ceremony.

A sister ship, the Northampton, was launched at Quincy, Mass., on Thursday, with Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, wife of the former president, as sponsor.

protection than ever before in history. It also was drawn to meet new economic conditions arising out of mass production. The giants in the business world don't care whether it passes or not. It is the little fellow who will gain the most by higher protection against cheap foreign competition. He wants it to pass now."

Senator James E. Watson (R) of Indiana, majority leader in the Senate, charged the Democrats with taking up the administrative features first because of the "weakness" of their opposition to the higher rates in the bill.

Plan Accepted

"The plan put forward by the Democrats for considering administrative features first is entirely acceptable," said Watson. "Naturally, we should decide the question of valuations first, since it is the most important issue at stake. As far as the other administrative features are concerned, we favor giving the President the power he has under the Tariff provision, but if Congress takes it away, there won't be any mourning about it. These are academic questions, but disposing of them first will clear away a lot of underbrush and fog."

When we get down to the rates, we'll hear a different story from the Democrats. That is where the Republican party is strong and the Democratic party weak. These new rates are just and fair. We tried as nearly as possible to adjust the rates, which were charged, to meet new conditions in industry and to equalize the difference in cost of production here and abroad. We may have made a few mistakes, but that is only human.

The country will learn eventually that the Democrats will talk much and do little. These new rates, if they are reduced, the small manufacturer, the little fellow in business, will be hurt. And the Democrats will see that result in time."

The Democrats and insurgents meanwhile continued group conferences, preparing for the debates next week. The coalition will open its fight on the bill by attacking the flexible tariff provision. The battle over the tariff probably will not be reached until October.

slow, Arizona, searching for the plane. City of San Francisco, missing since Tuesday with its occupants.

The Flying Colonel landed here last night after a daylight dash from New York. Colonel Lindbergh said he expected to reach Winslow before night.

Eight Missing.

WINSLOW, Ariz., Sept. 7.—Search of northern Arizona for the vanished T. A. T. airliner San Francisco and its eight missing passengers and crew reopened today, the fifth since the craft drove into a storm to an unknown fate Tuesday noon.

Five passengers, one woman, and three in the crew could not be alive now, all but the most hopeful admitted.

Carrying food for less than a day, the missing had faced starvation, if not death from thirst.

Paul Collins, operating manager of the T. A. T. directed the search for the plane here while awaiting Colonel Charles Lindbergh, technical advisor of the airline and organizer of its Arizona landing fields. Lindbergh this morning left St. Louis where he and Mrs. Lindbergh passed last night en route from New York.

On the T. A. T. airport here a mushroom field base had been completed where a swarm of mechanics worked all night on 27 scout planes.

Fifty pilots including army reconnaissance units from San Diego and March Field, Calif., mapped the savage wilderness for new explorations.

Three army bombing planes, carrying trained reconnaissance crews and a flight surgeon were enroute here from Santa Diego, Calif.

The flood of rumors, patiently run down at enormous expense by the T. A. T. and allied searchers, had begun flowing again early today.

Disappointed by failure of every lead thus far, but denying disheartenment, the field forces grimly went back to their task.

Airmen today will start a more methodical hunt. The flyers will search with maps in their planes, criss-crossing back and forth over one square of ten miles and then going on to the next, covering the entire vast district in accurate detail.

Hope that the occupants of the missing plane had been found flared high for several hours yesterday. Lieut. D. W. Tomlinson, flying over the Hopi country, reported seeing four persons waving "white shirts."

Scarcely had his report been made when a squadron of planes roared away to Wupatki, a Hopi village, a little to the north of where the four persons were seen.

Swinging down to within 50 feet of the hut described by Tomlinson, pilot Goldtrap, flying one of the rescue planes, saw the four persons. They were four Indians. They waved at him, too—with white clothes—and another lead went glimmering.

Drives Truck Without Drivers License

Marcheline Fava of the seventh ward district was arrested last night when found to have been driving the truck of the Mahoning Supply company without the owner's consent and without a driver's license.

He was released last night on a $15 forfeit and this morning he was taken before an alderman, where he was assessed a fine of $10 on costs on a charge of driving without a driver's license.

Technician Arrives

Arthur Merget, laboratory technician who will assist Dr. W. W. Blissell, pathologist of the new Jameson Memorial hospital, has arrived and has already begun his work with Dr. Blissell, with whom he has been associated before.

To complete the transfer of patients, beds, equipment and staff, has been a task requiring much preparation. In the past week Mr. Brimmer has slept but little, the work of preparing the new hospital and getting the old one evacuated taking most of his time.

Today's transfer marks the first day of work in the new Jameson Memorial hospital and also marks the fading of the Shenango Valley hospital from the picture.

Police Arrest
Owner Of Car

William Fletcher of 907 South Mercer street was arrested about 3:30 a. m. today by Officer Hemill at the Public Square when he and two other men were in a car backing out of a parking place.

The officer stopped the machine and Fletcher, on being taken to the police station, finally admitted that he had a couple of drinks, according to the police, but insisted that he was not under the influence of liquor and also that he was not driving when the arrest was made.

In view of these statements on the part of Fletcher he was assessed a fine of $25 on a charge of disorderly conduct, which he paid. A bottle was found in the car.

Argue On Square

Officers J. Young, Letera, Moore and Thomas were rounding the public square in the police car last night, when they heard two men having an argument in the midst of quite a group of people. They investigated and found the principals to be two colored men John Harris and Cy Landrum.

They were arrested and taken to the police station where Harris put up $10 for his appearance this morning. He failed to appear, and his money was declared forfeited. Landrum was assessed a fine of $5.

Arrested For Police
Of Youngstown, Ohio

Willie Mitchell and Willie Beals, colored, were arrested last night by Detectives John Young and Officers Moore, Thomas and Letera on suspicion of having been implicated in a recent robbery at Youngstown. They were held for the Youngstown authorities, who were unable to identify them as the men wanted, and this morning they were discharged by the police authorities at the time of the opening and inspection of the new hospital.

The spectators were dazzled by the unprecedented speed of Waghorn's "Flying Bullet." He skimmed through the air and round the four turns of the course with the speed and grace of a swallow.

Waghorn was the third favorite of the British trio, Flying Officer R. L. R. Atcherley being the favorite. Waghorn was the only married man of the trio of British aces. He was formerly an air school instructor.

Flight Lieutenant D'Arcy, Craig British favorite, got away more slowly than Waghorn. He averaged only 264 miles an hour on his first lap.

Italians Compete

Warrant Officer Thomas Dal Molin, of Italy, flying a Macchi 52, completed the course at an average speed of 284.2 miles an hour.

Lieut. Rino Cardingher, another Italian ace, covered the first lap of the course at 284 miles an hour.

Cardingher was forced to land and thus forfeit his chances in the race shortly afterwards.

Operating State School System Big Business Says Dr. J. A. H. Keith

HARRISBURG, Sept. 7.—Operating the public school system in Pennsylvania today may well be likened to big business, for the expenditure of its fourth demand, expenditures comparable with the major industries, Dr. John A. H. Keith, superintendent of public instruction, said today.

A study made of expenditures for all the public activities of education showed a total of $213,000,000 in the year.

The latest figures authorized by the Superintendent of Public Instruction shows that $202,734,231 is now expended by local school districts to operate the public school for one year. Added to this amount are the salaries of approximately $40,000 for county supervisors, $2,000,000 to establish a school employees retirement fund, and $5,519,561 in support of the preparation of teachers in the State normal schools and State teachers colleges, which make a total of approximately $213,000,000 spent in the interest of public education.

At the amount expended specifically by local school districts, $89,439,938 represent the salaries of teachers, numbering 59,561, or an average of approximately $1500 for each school employee annually.

The cost of textbooks, which are furnished free to school children in Pennsylvania, amounted to $1,204,447, or an average of $1.95 per pupil in average daily attendance.

Expenditures of capital outlay which cover costs for enlargement and expansion of the school plant through additional grounds, new buildings, new equipment and enlargements of old buildings required the sum of $24,789,076.

Other expenditures covering important items include $3,461,558 for school supplies, $795,832 for salaries of secretaries of school boards, $599,530, fees for treasurers, $2,188,828 for tax collectors, $848,843 for enforcement of compulsory education laws, $5,711,473 to keep the school plant in repairs; $7,395,585 for janitors' wages; $3,264,143 for fuel; $1,507,000 for salaries of superintendents of schools; $795,347 to reimburse teachers for attending institutes; $4,738,787 to pay tuition to other school districts; $1,082,894 to carry fire insurance; $2,197,010 for transportation of pupils; $1,243,075 for health service; $2,500,946 for teachers' retirement fund and $29,167,870 to redeem bonds and other forms of loans, including interest.

For Speed, Power and Pickup ~ a Six without a rival at its price

PONTIAC BIG SIX

PRODUCT OF GENERAL MOTORS

Without a single exception, the Pontiac Big Six is the fastest, most powerful six of its price offered to the motoring public today. Its sturdy, 200 cubic inch, I-head engine develops 60 brake horsepower at the moderate engine speed of 3000 r. p. m. Its top speed is the highest to be found in any low-priced six, according to the "Elfin wheel"—most accurate speed measuring device known to automotive engineers. The same instrument proves it to be the fastest accelerating six in its entire price group. And, furthermore, it offers the incomparable smoothness and the unrivaled reliability which follow the use of such features as the Harmonic Balancer to counteract torsional vibration in the crankshaft, crankcase ventilation to maintain the quality of engine oil, and airplane-type interchangeable, bronze-backed main bearings. Unquestionably, today's Pontiac Big Six is the performance leader of its price field—

SENSE COUNTS

It's not speed or the lack of speed that is important in motor driving. It's the use of common sense and the refusal to get excited. States which have no speed laws, like Michigan, show good judgment. It's not how fast you drive, but how watchfully, how carefully, how courteously. Sense is vastly more important than miles per hour.

RULES OF THE ROAD

Let's look over Henry Ford's "rules of the road." Ford used to drive a car himself. In fact he was a race driver. It is said he is still interested in motor racing and there is a rumor he knows much about it.

Courtesy comes first. Consider the rights and privileges of others.

Keep your mind on your driving and anticipate sudden emergencies.

Learn the "feel" of having your car under control.

Obey all traffic and parking regulations.

Keep to the right and comply with road markings and signs.

Signal for stops and turns. Watch the car ahead.

Slow down at crossings, schools and dangerous places.

Never pass cars on hills, curves or crossings.

Adapt your driving to road conditions—rain, ice, soft spots and ruts.

It doesn't pay to take the "right of way" too seriously.

When you drive, remember the times when you're a pedestrian.

Know the law. It was passed for your protection.

VALUE OF BRAINS

Analyze a business through and through; give credit to capital and everything else that enters. You discover that, after all, management is the main factor. Men are what you most need. James J. Hill, master railroad builder of the northwest, said: "It is ten times easier to assemble a million dollars of capital than to find the right man to manage the capital assembled."

Schwab, of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, when asked what he would do if a fire should destroy his steel properties, said: "I would not even figure these as a loss, as they could all be replaced in time; but if some catastrophe should destroy the entire personnel of our organization, I would then consider myself a ruined man."

The wealth of any corporation is brain power. The "Wall Street News" points out notable successes that have been built from little capital. They are triumphs of management—triumphs of brain power.

STRANGE

Strange how much time we are willing to give to the development of body power—and how little we are willing to give to the development of brain power!

Peerless Reaches Out in the Thousand-Dollar-Field

PRECISELY, that! A great, big, roomy 1930 Peerless in the thousand-dollar-price-field. And all the Peerless prestige, Peerless style and Peerless quality you've seen or read about for years. No car in its class even approaches it, not one. And no car has so definitely dethroned the public's idea of value. ¶ Now hear that scamper and nervous rush back to the blue-print rooms and cost departments—Peerless value has stamped the entire motor industry to try and produce its equal. But, it's in the bag. In a highly competitive market Peerless value holds the whip-hand by a ten-months' leadership. ¶ Peerless brings you incarnate energy cushioned in live, shock-absorbing rubber, and nimbly up to 70 miles an hour. It's the "Six 61-A" [3½ x 4] with 7-bearing crankshaft. ¶ Next, Peerless-Stromberg's New Assimilating Carburetion—you can't buck the engine at low speeds, can't rattle the torque. ¶ Peerless Mono-Control [coactive] subjects the car's operation to one hand. You start, steer, park, back or stop, raise the windshield, light your cigarette, turn on the windshield wiper, button your lights or signal horn with one hand, without effort, without reaching beyond the Peerless Control Board. It's as simple as running a radio. ¶ And this is also America's first low-price car to be sold from the inside—the beautiful French Interiors of the 1930 Peerless compare favorably with cars selling at double the Peerless price. Peerless gives more—costs less—watch Peerless. ¶ Roadster $995, Coupe $1095, Victoria $1145, Six Passenger Sedan $1195—all prices at factory. PEERLESS, Cleveland.

NEW YORK Sept. 7.—In this autobiography former Governor Smith of New York tells of attending a conference at the St. Cloud hotel at Broadway and 42nd street 35 years ago and after the meeting standing on the corner at 11:30 p. m. waiting for a Seventh avenue horse car. "And there wasn't a soul in sight," he says. "Even as far back as 1894 there were hotels, theaters, restaurants, chop houses, cable cars and saloons on Broadway in the vicinity of the St. Cloud hotel to say nothing of Sun Doggers."

It's a strange picture that of Al Smith standing alone under the stars at 42nd street and Seventh avenue at half past eleven, a stone's throw from the old St. Cloud hotel, listening to horse car bells and gazing at the devastated fringe of the Riato.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Sept. 7.—State Health Officer Fred D. Wells has found mild epidemics of typhoid fever in Marklesburg and Saxton, the number of cases in the latter community having threatened to become alarming. In all cases the origin of the disease has been traced to the use of infected well water. Some sporadic typhoid cases throughout the country are attributed to the low condition of the springs and streams.

It costs a lot to keep the kids in college, but it's worth that much to shift the responsibility for four years, court.

Of course you do not wish to embarrass your family, yet think of the embarrassment they would be caused if they should be refused credit at some store, because you had not paid your bills.

Why cause such a humiliation to both of you? If you have been a little negligent in the past, why not let this be a warning and pay all your bills promptly.

Has it ever occurred to you what a boy or girl will think of a parent who will not pay his bills.

That faith of a child in its father, its mother, is a wonderful thing.

Would you want to destroy it?

Use Addition At Union High

Suburban School Now Well Equipped For All Classes

NEARLY 500 IN TOWNSHIP SCHOOL

With the new seven-room addition to the school building practically as large as that of last term, the school is now well equipped for all classes. The new building, which was the first of the new school district, was completed last June. It is a two-story building, 100 feet long and 40 feet wide. It contains seven classrooms, a gymnasium, a cafeteria, a library, a music room, a science room, and a home economics room. The building is well lighted and ventilated. The school is now well equipped for all classes.

Room plentiful.

Union has ample space for school work and extra activities this year with the opening of the commodious new part containing seven classrooms, a combined auditorium-gymnasium and facilities used in connection with athletics. The gym had been opened and in use when school closed last June but the new rooms were completed during the summer. Club rooms, a new domestic science department, a medical room to be used in cases of emergency, and a boys' shower room, faculty rest room, ladies, a science lecture room and other systematic departmental rooms are provided in the section opened this fall. Whereas last year students were crowded together in the inadequate space, this year room is plentiful and school work is allowed to function not hampered because of lack of space.

A new time clock system which automatically rings class bells has been installed. The guide clock is located in the new school office not opened last year.

Union's first assembly occurred Thursday at which time students were assigned to their chapel seats and given an opportunity to locate them.

Teaching Staff.
With one exception, Union's faculty is complete. That vacancy is expected to be filled shortly. Instructors in the high school this year and the subjects they teach are as follows:
Miss Mildred Eppinger, English; Floyd Gelger, Math and Shop; Miss Alice Liko, Latin and English; Miss Margaret Tucker, French and English; William Hill, Science; Mrs. Mary Burnside, Junior High; Arthur J. Winters, Junior High; Henry and Social Science; Miss Arnes Dean, Home Economics; Mrs. Edith Dille, Girls Health, Spelling and Penmanship; D. M. Boyd, Boys Health.

New Castle P. H. C. Members Attend Cleveland Event

Forty Fifth Anniversary Of Cleveland Lodge Is Celebrated

Word comes to the secretary of
New Castle Circle No. 5, Protected Home Circle of another big event held in Cleveland, in which a representative of the local Circle was invited, when Woodland Circle No.
88 celebrated its 45th anniversary in Odd Fellows hall on Thursday night.
The event was another evidence of the great growth of the organization and was not only attended by many district circles with 12 or 15 representatives of the supreme body present.
Beautiful in its floral decorations was the lodge room, where a large class of candidates were initiated into the mysteries of the order following an elaborate dinner served at seven o'clock.

A feature of the session was the appearance on the floor of the first degree team of the circle in their original regalia. Their work and drill was perfection, even if it was that of years gone by. The one regret of the team was that George Mitchell, a former member, was laid to rest that day.

New Castle visitors included Past-President Helen Ray, who in her usual snappy style added remarks to the excellent program; Watchman Flora Cunningham, Nora McCann, Mrs. William Back and Mrs. Will Vogan.

At the close of the session lunch was served and a social hour rounded out a delightful gathering observing the 45th anniversary of Woodland 85.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations
Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

The horse shoe players are heard from. That is some of them. In a letter today, four of the boys who toss the shoes up on the Laurel Boulevard courts, challenge the city. No results, nobody barred, just anybody who thinks he can play the game is invited to step out. The letter follows:

September 6, 1929.

Dear Sir:—
Just noticed in your "Roaming Round Culum" that you wanted to know just where the champion horse shoe pitchers were. Well, there is just one way to find out, get the boys together, so here is a challenge.
J. C. McGivern, P. A. Buchanan, D.
C. Byers and George Kisko of the Laurel Boulevard courts will play any four men team in the city on any court in the city, any evening from September 16 to 29.

Hoping that this challenge will be a means of bringing the boys together, I remain,

J. C. McGivern,
416 Laurel Boulevard.

Plain enough for anybody. This four man team thinks it is the best in the city and doesn't mind saying so.
Perhaps they are, I don't know, but it seems to me that with such a challenge flung out, that the players over on the East Side, in Croton, down back of the car barns, or up at the Park Avenue Fire station would want to dispute the claim of a championship.

Does any four horse shoe pitchers in the city think they can do anything about it?
That rain Friday evening wasn't a very healthy one, and didn't soak in very far, but as short as it was and as skimp as it was, it helped to blanket a very tasty corn roast out at Lakewood. And how these Methodists can hide steamed roasting cars.

Charley Andrews seems to hold the church record for getting away with the succulent delicacies. He can play a cob of corn with the same skill as a piccolo player and makes the turns at the end of cob with nary a sid.

This is moving day at the Shenango Valley Hospital and by this evening it will be just an empty building. By dark all the patients will be moved to the new Jamison Memorial Hospital and the new plant will be under way.

All of which marks the beginning of a new era in hospitals in this county.
The old Shenango Valley did some wonderful work, but you can't make a modern hospital out of a building such as it was. What to do with the old building is now something to think over.

Some argument developed the other evening as to just when the Harvest Moon would be shining. If anybody knows when this particular moon does its stuff, I wish they would pass the information on. Is it the next moon we have, or the one in October or just when is it due?

Little Peasant Girl Will Get Better, Has Clemenceau To Thank

Fierce Gruff "Tiger" Of Late World War Shows Streak Of Kindness In Act Of Mercy

Calls Famous Parisian Physician To Operate On Girl; May Now Recover Health

General. 1929. International News Service. VINCENT EN JARD, France, Sept. 7.—On a rustic bench in the flower-laden garden of the modest cottage where she lives, a little French girl sat today and told in simple phrases of the love and kindness of M. Georges Clemenceau.

It was a story that contrasted strangely with the former French premier's reputation as a rough, unrefined individual, whose fiery political characteristics earned him the life-long sobriquet of "the tiger."

It was a story that revealed in Clemenceau traits of unassuming charity and philanthropy and belied the reputation of ruthlessness and intimidation that the aged statesman carved for himself in history's hall of fame.

Act Of Mercy
The little girl was Marthe Renault, a sweet, unaffected peasant girl of fourteen, who, suffering from a complication of grave internal disorders, has been placed on the road to recovery by Clemenceau's philanthropy.

Marthe's story is the second chapter in a romantic tale that began when Dr. Degennes, the famous French surgeon who tended the late Marshal Foch in the last days of his fatal illness, was called hurriedly to this little town from Paris for the extensive purpose of treating M. Clemenceau.

But when Dr. Degennes arrived, he found the eighty-five year old French statesman in his usual health, except for some fatigue due to incessant work on his memoirs. And instead of finding himself administering to the greatest living French statesman, the distinguished physician took his place, at Clemenceau's request, at Marthe's bedside.

Famous Doctor Called
Dr. Degennes' diagnosis revealed that Marthe was suffering from intestinal adhesions, the result of an appendicitis operation which failed to heal properly. But although an operation is necessary, sunlight and air were also recommended, so Marthe was aided to the rustic bench in her front garden this morning to tell International News Service how M. Clemenceau had come to her aid and to that of her poverty-stricken family.

Pale and wan and obviously in ill health, Marthe nevertheless is confident she is going to get well. And she is profuse in her thanks of Clemenceau's kindness.

Wants To Get Well
"I am so glad M. Clemenceau is taking an interest in me," Marthe said, "because I do so want to get well."

"Do you know just who M. Clemenceau is?" the girl was asked.

"Yes," the peasant girl answered with utter naivete. "He is an old gentleman with a funny hat and a long-tailed coat who is just as kind as can be. Sometimes he is just a bit gruff and brusque, but mostly he is kind and sweet to me."

"But don't you know that M. Clemenceau is the man who won victory for France in the World War?" The interviewer persisted.

Talks With "Tiger"
"I was only seven then," Marthe answered, "and I don't know much about the war at all. I know M. Clemenceau likes to sit and talk to me and ask me questions about myself, my flowers and my little sheep."

He tells me I am going to get well. "One day I asked him if he had any daughters of his own. He said that he had none, and that was why he wanted me to get well."

"Did you know that the doctor who came to see you was the man who treated the great Marshal Foch?" "It's possible," Marthe said with a smile, "but I don't know. M. Clemenceau brought him, and thanks to M. Clemenceau I soon will be rid of my illness and then you don't know how happy I will be."

But in spite of Marthe's optimism, the tiger's help has resulted in increased worries for the girl's mother, who has reared 11 children in her one-room cottage.

Ceases To Help
"The community used to give us financial aid," Mme. Renault said, "but since I learned of M. Clemenceau's kindness it has ceased to help us."

"It is true that M. Clemenceau has helped me and my family tremendously. My youngest son has stomach trouble, and thanks to M. Clemenceau he was saved. But I have eight children left and it is difficult to support them now that the village knows M. Clemenceau is interested in our plight."

Clemenceau himself is far from pleased that the news of his philanthropy has spread abroad. Six weeks he has made almost daily visits to the Renault home to aid Marthe all he could, and he hoped that when Dr. Degennes took the case in hand to save the girl from what appeared to be certain death that the world would not notice his action.

To his intimates he is reported to have expressed great anger over the publicity which has attended his philanthropy. He remains in seclusion in his tiny cottage near the Renault abode, dividing his time between his garden and his writing room.

Will Soon Be 88
M. Clemenceau will observe his 88th birthday in a few days and it was reported that he would stand all the expense of Marthe's operation treatment as a birthday offering. But the old statesman refused to confirm this report. In fact, he guffily refused to answer any questions at all.

Although he is bold enough before his political enemies and the foes of his country, the ex-premier was too modest to say anything about his philanthropy for his little friend the peasant girl. His grouchiness toward the outside world seemed to have been emphasized because the world had learned of his kindness and charity for a poor peasant neighbor.

But "the tiger" did intend to make a statement to International News Service. It was brief and to the point:

"Dr. Degennes has ordered the operation. You can be certain she will get the operation."

That was all.

BEAR ATTACKS YOUNG GIRL WITH ICE CREAM

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 7.—Florence Wood, 14 year old daughter of Mrs. C. R. Wood of St. Davids, near Philadelphia is recovering today after being bitten and mauled by a bear.

Mrs. Wood with her daughter were on their way to Binghamton, N. Y. when they stopped at a refreshment stand yesterday between Swiftwater and Mount Pocono north of here.

The girl with a cream cone in her hand approached the enclosure where the bear was on exhibition. A moment later her mother heard a scream and found her daughter in the clutches of the animal. The proprietor of the stand and others beat back the bear and rescued the girl who was taken to a physician's office at Mount Pocono. She had been bitten on the shoulder, body and legs the doctor said but the wounds were not very deep.

BORAH PROBES ALLEGED LOBBYING

Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, has demanded a senatorial investigation of the activities of William D. Shearer, naval expert, at the Geneva disarmament conference. Borah has asked Senator Frederick Hale, of Maine, chairman of the naval affairs committee, to determine whether or not Shearer was employed by shipbuilding companies to lobby against disarmament. Shearer has brought suit against two shipbuilding organizations for $250,000 back salary, stating he had been paid $50,000 "for work at the Geneva disarmament conference." Shearer is at right, above; Hale, upper left, and Borah, below.

ABE MARTIN On Is Smokin' Doomed?

NOT LOOKIN' FER TROUBLE

Miss Pat Plum, eleven, is housed up this party weather by stalled oxidation caused by excessive cigarette smokin', so her doctor says. I've been noticein' a lot o' women an' girls who seem to have sluggish oxidations. Slow oxidation can be painted over an' is easily noticeable. An' I'm wonderin' if the day hasn't comin' when our reformers will git down to business an' take the matter up an' git after tobacco same as they uprooted liquor. An' I'll cause lots o' hardships for tobacco as they uprooted liquor. But reformers are cold-blooded when it comes to goin' after a thing. They don't let sentiment out any ice if a thing is fer the good o' humanity. If wavin' liquor forever from our land wuz largely an' economic proposition, how about tobacco? Think o' the high-priced plasterers an' bricklayers that fill an'

knock out their pipes, an' refill an' fumble about for matches, on their employers' time! Clerks sneak out an' smoke in basements. Thousands keep away from our churches 'cause they can't smoke in 'em. Think o' the poor who puff away their scanty earnings. Society an' club leaders neglect their children to sneak off an' smoke. Thousands an' thousands o' rags an' newspapers are ruined by cigarette fire, an' I try to imagine the millions tied up in cigarette lighters, an' the millions invested in ash trays an' smokin' stands. Think o' the third-rate politicians of affluence by passin' out black, shiny nickel cigars. Think o' the countless evenin's at the theater that have been ruined by cigarette addicts climbin' over us to git out an' smoke. A million homes have been wrecked on account o' mislaid pipes. The last thing a murderer does before he goes to the chair is smoke a cigarette, an' the first thing a bandit does after he finally gets caught an' is locked up is light a cigarette. But tobacco 'll have powerful defenders an' reformers 'll know they've been in a fight. It's problematical what stand big business 'll take on the tobacco question, but it is no secret that its powerful influence had much to do with closin' the open doorway. However, the workman who used to git pickled on Saturday night an' be an economic liability till the followin' Tuesday noon didn't lose no more time than a pipe smoker. In these days o' machinery the employer is gittin' to care less an' less about the personal habits of his employees. I might try to change the course o' the gulf stream, or try to publish a newspaper that pleased ever-buddy, but I'd hate to try to stop smokin' myself, to say nothin' o' stoppin' ever-buddy else.

Market Forges Ahead Again

Higher Levels Of Prices Today Due To Profit-Taking And Speculative Selling

STEEL-RADIO STOCKS DROP

(International News Service.) NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—In the face of a heavy load of profit-taking and speculative selling, industrial stocks and utilities in the week-end market forged ahead to higher levels of prices today.

A part of the new gains were lost in the closing period, but post-pets and speculative favorites had plenty of support at the peaks.

Simmons Company's sensational 14 1/2-point jump to 172 1/2 was the feature of the closing period, the stock having moved up nearly 25 points in the week and nearly 100 points on the current move. National Register closed 10 points higher at 139 and Columbia Graphophone up about 3 at 71 3/8.

Radio and U. S. Steel, two of the week's favorites, were under moderate pressure as the hectic week drew to a close. Steel Common lost 2 3/4 points at its final price of 247 1/2 and Radio lost 3 1/2 points at 110 1/4. Consolidated Gas was off 1 1/2 at 175 and General Motors up fractionally at 73 1/4.

In general, the market followed the course of the bull movements of the week, the utility stocks commanding a strong upward move in anticipation of broad expansion of their producing and earning capacities, and the steel and motor stocks gradually moving into higher price territory. American Waterworks closed the week at 191, completing a gain of 124 points on the move.

American Consul Is Under Attack For His Actions

Paul Knabenshue, American Consul in Palestine Is Charged Anti-Jewish

(International News Service.) WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—At the instance of Senator Borah (R., Idaho), the state department is investigating charges against Paul Knabenshue, American consul general at Jerusalem, that he was anti-Jewish in work incident to the Palestine disorders.

Just who made the charges has not been revealed, but Senator Borah said he received his information from responsible officials of Zionist organizations.

Only last week Knabenshue reported to the state department that some of the demands being made on him by Americans in Palestine were impossible of fulfillment because of their nature and the department while it withheld details expressed the utmost sympathy with the natural "state of mind" of the victims of the rioting between the Jews and the Arabs.

Department officials indicated, however, that this was perfectly natural for all sorts of demands to be made under the circumstances. Knabenshue and must be limited to the proper functions of a consular officer.

Some of the demands, it was said, would have gotten this country into difficulties with the mandate authorities if they had been met.

It is understood the charges Knabenshue now faces grew out of these upbraids. He has been working night and day answering inquiries from American Zionists as to the fate of relatives and friends in the Palestine, the department declared.

Britain Wins Air Cup Races

Great Britain Wins Schneider Cup Trophy When Italian Fliers Are Forced Down

OVER MILLION WITNESS RACES

(The Associated Press.) RYDE, ISLE OF WIGHT, Eng., Sept. 7.—Great Britain today retained the Schneider cup, the greatest speed trophy known to aviation.

England won this spectacular contest in the presence of approximately 1,000,000 spectators when two of the Italian aces, Lieut. Rino Cardinaz and Lieut. Vittorio Monti, were forced down.

Italy never had a chance as the British won smashed records and set up new speed marks hitherto unknown to man.

The world speed record was broken on twice during the course of the contest.

Flying Officer H. R. D. Waghorn, of England, broke all flying records when he sped over the Schneider cup course at an average speed of 328.63 per hour.

Shortly afterward British Flier Officer R. L. R. Atcherley set a new world mark when he covered the fourth lap of the 217 1/2 mile cup course at 332 miles hourly.

Official announcement that Waghorn had won was made at 4:15 o'clock. His speed was given as 328.63 miles per hour.

Atcherley's speed for the entire was 328.63 miles per hour.

During the last three laps of the course Atcherley traveled on an average hourly speed of 328, 331 and 332 miles.

Atcherley did better than Grafton at his take-off, finishing the first of the seven laps at the rate of 302 miles hourly.

Atcherley's speed for the second lap averaged 324 miles an hour.

The old record for the Schneider cup course was 281.69 miles an hour while the seaplane speed record for a straightaway course was 318.62 miles hourly.

Waghorn won the race, retaining the trophy which Flight Lieutenant Webster had won for Britain at Venice two years ago.

Atcherley, another British ace, also finished the course.

The two Italian pilots were forced down upon the second lap. Monti had completed the first of the seven laps at a rate of 301 miles hourly and was given promise of a greater burst of speed when he had to quit because of mechanical trouble.

Neither of the Italian aces was injured in their forced landings.

Waghorn flew a supermarine Rolls Royce S-6 machine, the speediest in the world.

All three British entrants completed the course without mishap.

Flight Lieutenant Darcy Green, a well known British flier, finished the 217 1/2 miles at an average speed of 321.11 miles hourly.

The vast crowd was thrilled by the greatest exhibition of air speed the world has ever known.

The Prince of Wales and Premier Ramsay MacDonald, who witnessed the race from the decks of offshore ships, joined the applause for the winner.

Mrs. Ella Gibson of Volant R. D. A. Miss Emma Hunt of Volant and Mrs. John Bower and Elmer Bower of Enid avenue have returned home after a motor trip to Niagara Falls and Canada.

Identity Of Strange

Bird Is Established

Specimen Is Found In The Field

Museum In Chicago, Illinois

During a period of seventeen days while the Girl Scouts were enjoying their annual camp at the Y. M. C. A. camp on the Slippery Rock creek during the past summer, the girls and those in charge, as well as others saw three good sized birds, which they could in no way identify as a native of Pennsylvania. All possible local means of identification were exhausted in the effort to determine what species the birds might be.

Over a recent week-end, one of the Girl Scout Councilors took time, while on a short and hurried visit to Chicago, to go to the Field Museum in that city to fully determine, if possible, the identity of these birds and she succeeded, finding an actual specimen of the bird at that place.

These strange birds belonged to the species known as "Little Green Heron" and are natives of Pennsylvania and peculiar to districts with small streams like the Slippery Rock. For some strange reason, however, they are scarce in the district in which these three specimens were seen.

Local Missionary In India Writes Of Trip Over The Himalayans

Edward Ralph Describes Recent Journey Made Under Difficulties

Tells Of Hard Task Missionaries Face In Convincing Natives Of Christ

Mrs. Edward Ralph of Park avenue has received an interesting letter from her son, Edward Ralph, who is a missionary in India, and who recently returned to the mission field there after a visit to his home in New Castle. He describes a difficult trip made over the mountains to the famous Kashmir valley.

His letter follows:
Mandi, Poonch, Kashmir.
July 19, 1929, India.

My dear mother:
I have just returned from a very interesting trip across the mountains into the famous "Vale of Kashmir". The trip was taken to visit the people of the high uplands of Poonch state and to bring needed supplies from Gulmarg, a summer resort on the other side of the mountains which has many English inhabitants during the summer months. Besides I wanted to see for myself these high mountains and valleys which are seldom seen by white men. On the morning of July 5th, I started out on foot with two coolies, one carrying my basket of food for the journey and the other with my bedding roll on his back. The start was made from our summer camp in Mandi. Mrs. Ralph and John remaining in the camp during my absence.

I calculated that the trip would take two days going, two days returning, with one day's rest in Gulmarg. The distance is about 25 miles and is difficult because of the climbing rather than because of the distance. The altitude of Mandi, the starting point is 4,500 feet. We kept going up the narrow mountain valley over a rough stony path. At first we passed through rice fields flooded with water at this season from the irrigation ditches and higher on the hillsides were patches of corn. The mud houses of the farmers dotted the mountain sides. As we got higher up the valley we left the rice fields and passed through only corn fields and the houses became fewer. It was early in the afternoon when we passed the last cornfield and the last group of houses. The steady climbing over the rough stony path made us weary and my men would call to me, again and again, to wait that they might put down their loads and rest. One of the men was continually saying: "Sahib, I am dead!" so I would take pity on him and rest, though the loads were comparatively light, and we pushed on as I wanted to get half the journey completed before night. Beyond the cornfields and huts we came to pine and fir forests which covered the steep mountain sides. Our path then followed close along a rocky mountain stream, which we had to cross and recross a number of times. We passed an occasional goat or sheep herder with his flock and sometimes a man with a goatskin bag of meal on his shoulder which he had ground at one of the small water power mills. We left the small stream now and went directly up over the mountain side. The climbing was very difficult. After a while we came to an open, grassy meadow—here were temporary herders' huts at far intervals. These people had come up from the valley below for the summer months to pasture their cattle, sheep and goats. We pressed on up another steep ascent until we came near the timber line at about 10,000 feet altitude. Here we came to a hut and were given permission to stay for the night. It was nearly dark and we were very tired. I ate from my basket, got a drink of fresh milk, and was given a place to lie down by the open fire inside the hut. Fir boughs on the floor made a soft bed and I opened my bedding roll and lay down. One side of the hut was open and a partition of sticks went through the center. On one side of this partition was the stable for the cattle and on the other side the family lived. My bed was next to the partition and the cattle stirring during the night and eating the leaves from the green limbs of the partition, disturbed more sleep somewhat. The family composed of three brothers and their wives and numerous children did not eat their evening meal until 9 or 10 o'clock. The women baked the flat corn cakes over the open fire and passed them to the group sitting around the fire. While they were eating I told them of Jesus Christ—the Savior. The men listened and one seemed quite interested—the women paid little attention and I doubt if they understood my words. Hill Punjabi and Kashmiri seemed to be their common language. The night was cold and wet—it was late when all talking ceased and all settled for the night. Men, women and children, myself and my two men all on the floor. We had our breakfast and were off by nine o'clock. We had more hard climbing and many snow banks in the ravines which we had to cross where the snow remains from year to year.

At about noon we reached Devhari Gali—marked on the map as having an altitude of 12,360 feet. This is the pass between Poonch and Kashmir. Behind us were the endless mountains of Poonch and before us was a narrow valley through which we must pass and another mountain to be crossed before we reached the valley below. We were now descending for several miles. It was such a relief after the endless climbing. We followed down one stream and up another, over numerous snow banks and through mountain pastures covered with many kinds of mountain flowers, which are in their glory this time of year. Flocks of sheep and goats and an occasional shepherd were again passed. We began to ascend—up and up until we reached the 12,000 feet level, and then at the summit of the ridge the beautiful valley of Kashmir came into view stretched out like a table 7,000 feet below and beyond range after range of the snow covered Himalayas. Seemingly at our feet, was the summer resort of Gulmarg, a great meadow skirted by fir. Although it looked so near it was six miles away and 3,500 feet below us. Two hours of stiff descent brought us there just at dark.

As I passed through the golf links I felt very much out of place with my rough khaki clothing and my two luggage coolies at my heels. It was the first time I had been out to civilization for more than a year. I was puzzled as to where I should stay. I had neither the money nor the clothes necessary for staying at the hotel. After some investigation I heard that the Catholic priest had a room at the church which I could have for a small charge a night, without board. I went to investigate and was warmly welcomed by a young Irish priest who insisted that I should sit down at once and have something to drink. He said I was welcome to stay as long as I liked and he wouldn't charge me a penny, and that he was very sorry he could not board me as well—he took his meals at the hotel. I told him I had food in my basket and could get along very well.

Next morning was Sabbath and the holy father was stirring early for mass—he came in with a cheery word and told me his servant would bring me my breakfast from the hotel. He told me he would not eat with me as they are not allowed to eat from mid-night until after holy communion on Sunday. After mass he told me the cooks at the hotel were members of his church and he had told them a "missioner" was staying with him and that they were to send my meals over to the church as long as I was there. To say I was grateful would be putting it mildly. I had only twenty-five rupees with me and every bit of it would be necessary for the food and supplies I wanted to take back with me. I was nearly desperate the evening before when the cheapest place I could find was seven rupees for just one night. It was then that I told the Lord I would turn the whole matter over to Him and that He should provide the place he wanted me to stay. Isn't that just like the Lord. He always does so much better than we can do. In the afternoon I had a long talk with the holy father. He was such good company and so concerned about my welfare. He talked freely and frankly about his own church and his own work. He has no burden for the people and does not work among the natives in the native language. Those who attend his services are English or native Catholics who understand the ceremonies of the Catholic church. He thinks India is hopeless as far as coming to Christ is concerned. He says at the Roman Catholic high school for boys in Kashmir, only six have been baptized in the thirty years of its existence and that the Protestant church high school in Kashmir had not baptized a dozen boys in the 35 years since it started. The last mentioned is famous as a training school all over India. What a pity! The boys enter this school ignorant Hindus or Mohammedans and they come out educated, but still Hindus and Mohammedans. The priest seemed to be much impressed when I told him we had baptized nine in a year and three more are asking for baptism.

Sincerely,
Edward B. Ralph.

Pigeon Is Said To Die Of Grief

MEMPHIS, Sept. 7.—A homing pigeon died near its boy master's body today and will be buried with Louis W. Baskette, 15, Memphis youth and pigeon fancier who was drowned yesterday while fishing.

The pigeon was the youth's favorite and had taken many prizes. It left its roost, circled gracefully over the house where the boy lay and dropped dead while swooping toward the porch.

If Nature is so wise, why didn't she give the inferiority complex to people who need it.

TELLS OF TRIP WEST
San Jose, Cal., Sept. 3, 1929.
Mr. Fred Renz,
Editor New Castle News,
New Castle, Pa.

My Dear Mr. Renz—I want to express to you my appreciation of your kindness in sending me The News on my western trip. It was a weekly letter from home. I am sure many of your readers will be interested to know something about my trip, which has taken me through 11 states and a large part of western Canada.

We travelled by automobile from New Castle to Jarvis, Alberta, in nine days and saw many very interesting scenes and events. Our trip led us through Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota, then through the vast region of Alberta up to the Peace river district. The country looked good. Fine crops with farmers busy at work, were in evidence. North Dakota was an exception. The region there was dry and barren.

At Jarvis I was entertained in the home of my brother and his family and enjoyed the pioneer life immensely. The days were long because of the northern latitude, and I had to pull down the shades at bedtime to make it dark enough for me to sleep.

Last year the raw fur that went out of Alberta brought $4,300,000.

From Jarvis I travelled by train through Idaho, Washington, Oregon and California to San Jose to visit my preacher brother, Dr. William E. Crouser, who is pastor of the Grace Lutheran church in this city.

With him and his wife and son I have seen many interesting sights in this part of the state. Our trips have included Golden Gate Park, in San Francisco, where I looked out through that wonderful Golden Gate into the great Pacific; the Memorial church at Palo Alto that cost a round million and a half and that could not be built today for four times that amount; the Cliff Drive along the shore of the Pacific ocean, and the new bridge across the San Francisco bay at San Mateo, which is 14 miles long and is the longest bridge in the world. We have yet to see the big trees, Yosemite and the capital at Sacramento. From my brother's yard I can see the Dick observatory on Mt. Hamilton, a distance of 25 miles.

The sun shines every day, but it is not hot here. The nights are quite cool. I arrived in time to get a few ripe apricots. Peaches, plums, apples, plums are abundant. Almonds are beginning to ripen.

I was warned by some of my friends

New Castle's Strouss - Hirshberg Store Will Offer Only—

- fresh new merchandise,
- style correct things,
- of standard high quality

We want this fact established in your thought: New Castle's Strouss-Hirshberg store, from the first day on, will always be an inviting place to shop.

It will be smaller than the Youngstown store, of course, but it will be a replica of it in policies, friendliness of service, fineness of the merchandise, and in its substantial values.

It will be a New Castle store, not a Youngstown store.

It will be an "individual" store, by, of and for New Castle in its management, civic contacts, and almost entirely in its personnel.

The economic advantages of its affiliation with the Youngstown store will be apparent in the fashion and beauty of the merchandise, in well rounded assortments, and in the utmost of "money's worth" its values will afford, (quality considered of course.)

Planning To Honor Memory Of Pulaski

One hundred fifty years ago, in October, 1779, General Casimir Pulaski, Polish gentleman, soldier and friend of the American colonies, died from wounds received in the battle of Savannah, Ga. A gallant hero, his name has ever been cherished by Americans for he took sides with the colonists when help was needed sorely.

The brilliancy of his achievements, rather hazy with the years, and as a tribute to his worth, the United States government has lent official recognition to the celebrations which will be held over the country in commemoration for him.

Observe It Here.

Here in New Castle the Polish people expect to observe the 150th anniversary of his death and already plans are being laid for a celebration which will remember the deeds of their countryman. Thus far a number of Polish organizations have joined in the plans, among them the Casimir Pulaski society of Oakland, the Polish Falcons, the Polish National Alliance (four chapters), the St. Michael's society (1307 Moravia street), Jamelly and the various Polish churches.

Because General Casimir Pulaski meant so much to the success of American arms during the Revolution, the Polish people feel that this celebration should be held jointly by the Polish societies and the various patriotic organizations of this city. For this reason an appeal will be made to the Sons of the American Revolution, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Spanish-American War Veterans and other organizations.

Brilliant Record.

The record of General Casimir Pulaski in the Revolution is one of the many bright spots of the struggle for freedom. Like Lafayette, V. M. Steuben and other soldiers of foreign nations, Casimir Pulaski came to this country to cast his lot with the colonists.

He not only lent his ability as a soldier, but sacrificed his personal fortune.

He took part in the battle of the Brandywine and for service in that battle the continental congress commissioned him as a brigadier general. At Warren Tavern he saved the Continental army from a surprise attack and later took part in the battle of Germantown. In the winter of 1777-78 he participated in the operations of General Anthony Wayne and helped to defeat a division of British troops at Red Bank, N. J. Congress then authorized General Pulaski to organize a corps of lancers and light infantry which became famous as the Pulaski Legion, with its own standard at the head of the troops. In May, 1779, he successfully defended Charleston, S. C., against the British and in October, 1779, led his cavalry against the British at Savannah, Ga.

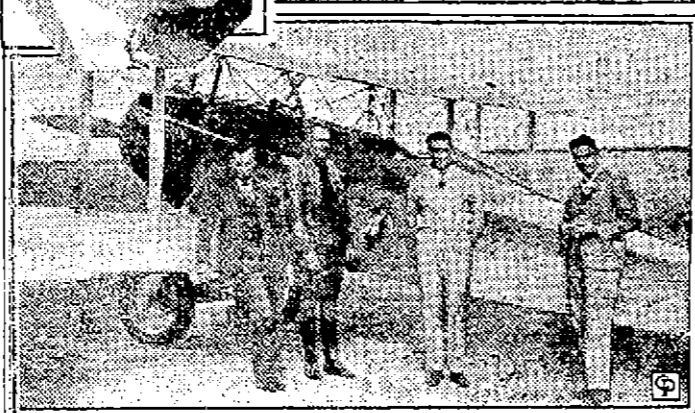

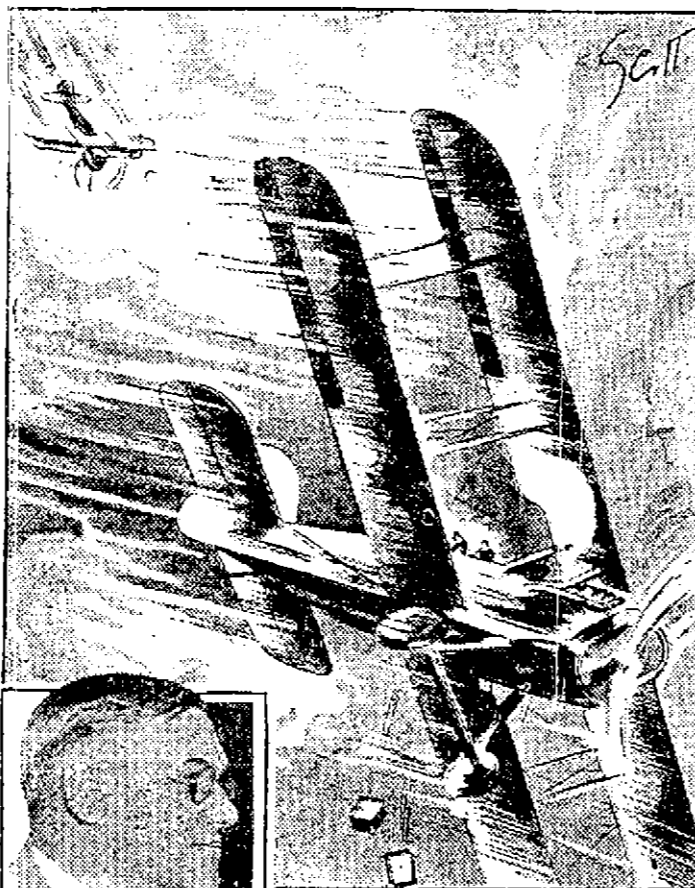

A piece of the history of General Pulaski's work at Savannah reads as follows:

On October 9, 1779, at the battle of Savannah, General Pulaski led his cavalry in an attack upon the British in order to save the French columns under General D'Estaing, when he was struck by a fragment of a shell and dechured. Grimacing of his mortal wound he shouted his commands at the charging cavalry. First aid was given to him on the battlefield by Dr. J. Lynch, the great grand uncle of Dr. J. Lynch, now living in Detroit, Mich., who had the shell fragment extracted from General Pulaski's right hip. In his possession until May of this year, when he presented it to the Georgia Historical society at Savannah.

General Pulaski was placed on board the Colonial gunboat "Wasp" which was to sail for Charleston, but gangrene set in and the life spark of the great hero was extinguished on October 11, 1779, and General Pulaski was buried at sea. Other accounts have it that General Pulaski died on board the "Wasp" but was buried about 50 miles from Savannah, "under a large tree." Still another account says that General Pulaski was buried on a farm in the village Greenwich, five miles from Savannah. When the mound at the indicated place was opened in 1853 a skeleton was found, but identification was impossible.

A meeting will be held in St. Michael's hall, 1307 Moravia street, at 8 o'clock Friday evening, September 13, at which meeting it is to be hoped that many Americans will be present to assist in the plans.

TO SPOT RUM RUNNERS FROM AIR

Not to be outdone by bootleggers, Walter S. Petty, inset, collector of rum runners at Detroit, is laying plans for the establishment of an airplane patrol over the Detroit river, Lake Erie and Lake St. Clair to combat bootleggers who have been using planes to transport liquor. Two confederate planes, one taken from an alien smuggler and the other from a rum runner, will soon be put into use by Petty's border patrol force. Photo shows plane on the border at El Paso, Tex., which is used by federal agents to prevent smuggling and rum running; above, sketch of rum runners being pursued in the future.

Long years ago, the founders of this business conceived an idea. It was back in the days when women wore shoes and bought them a size, or two too small. The idea to provide AAAA to EEE widths and 1 to 11 sizes at a modest cost. No person was ever told they had an expensive foot to fit at the Economy.

Today our reputation for comfort and assured fitting has become so far-flung that it is a mere subconscious impression. And with equal vision we take pleasure in introducing Miss Ann A. Walker.

Miss Walker, stylist and designer extraordinary will twice a year attend the Paris opening and select for you the most pleasing of models shown there... and the Economy will copy them exactly and offer the replica's at $5 and $6. May we invite you to the first showing of Ann A. Walker shoes.

DANCE ARTS

It is highly important that the student's first education in the art of dancing should be with the fundamental principles of art. These early impressions establish a vision of natural sincerity and spiritual beauty that guide and control the student in later years, forming a foundation for that aim of all real education, Character. Youth—Everyone wants to be young. All admire youthful beauty. But what is youth? Fundamentally youth is health. The best way and really the only way in which to acquire perfect health is by DANCING. It is the best form of physical culture because IT EMBODIES BEAUTY, POISE and HEALTH. Children and adults quickly acquire health, self-confidence, grace and ability when enrolled in our School of Dance Arts.

It has always been the aim of the Smith-Williams Institute to have on their faculty instructors who are the most efficient and of the highest type possible to secure. Appreciating this, we have been exceedingly careful with our department of dance arts in securing the services of Mary Louise Galvin who will direct the work in this department.

Classes in ballet, tap, soft shoe, toe, musical comedy and acrobatic. Special class for wee babies.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

The Story Of The World War
1918—Council Of National Defense

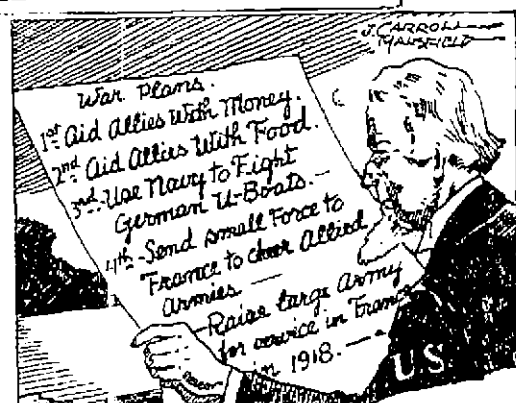

WHEN THE UNITED STATES DECLARED WAR ON GERMANY, AMERICANS, ACCUSTOMED TO LARGE SCALE ENTERPRISES IN BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY, APPLIED THE SAME ENERGY AND AGGRESSIVENESS, THE SAME SCIENTIFIC AND EFFICIENT METHODS TO THE TASK OF WINNING THE WAR.

THE COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE, WHICH HAD BEEN CREATED BY THE NATIONAL DEFENSE ACT OF 1916, IMMEDIATELY UNDERTOOK THE WORK OF MUSTERING THE FACILITIES AND RESOURCES OF THE NATION FOR WAR. THE COUNCIL CONSISTED OF THE SECRETARIES OF WAR, NAVY, INTERIOR, AGRICULTURE, COMMERCE AND LABOR.

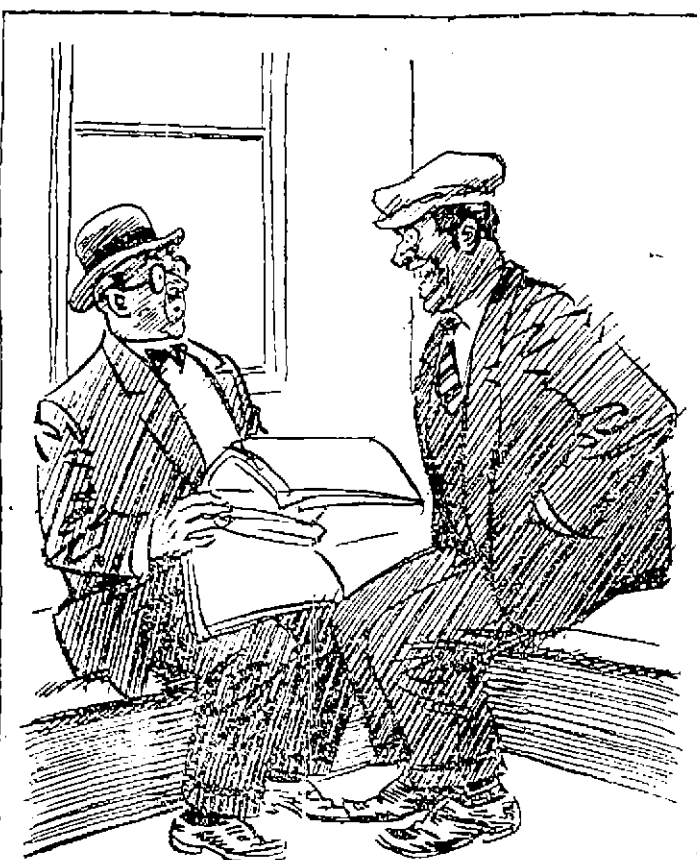

AN ADVISORY COMMISSION, COMPOSED OF SEVEN LEADING EXPERTS PICKED FROM CIVIL LIFE, COLLABORATED WITH THE COUNCIL. EACH OF ITS MEMBERS WAS IN CHARGE OF ONE OF THE VITAL NECESSITIES SHOWN ABOVE. THE PRESIDENT WAS THUS ENABLED, THROUGH THE COUNCIL AND ITS ADVISORY COMMISSION, TO HAVE READY COMMAND OF THE COUNTRY'S RESOURCES.

ANY AMERICANS WHO EXPECTED THAT THE UNITED STATES WOULD IMMEDIATELY MARCH A MIGHTY FORCE INTO THE THICK OF THE FIGHTING WERE MISTAKEN. IT WOULD REQUIRE MONTHS TO RAISE AND TRAIN A LARGE ARMY AND TO PRODUCE THE ENORMOUS QUANTITIES OF SUPPLIES, EQUIPMENT AND MUNITIONS NECESSARY TO MAINTAIN IT IN THE FIELD. OUR WAR PLANS HAD TO BE MADE ACCORDINGLY.

Bill Tilden To Try Comeback In Tennis Tourney

Tilden Will Attempt To Regain Laurels In Tennis Tourney At Forrest Hills

HENRI COCHET IS NOW TITLE HOLDER

By MALCOLM ROY
International News Service Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Big Bill Tilden will endeavor to prove in the space of the next eight days that they do come back.

Bill, who was a perennial national lawn tennis champion up until 1926 when one Jean Rene Lacoste of Paris, France, deftly toppled him from his throne, goes into the National Championship tournament which begins on the first of the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills today, as an overwhelming favorite to win the title for the seventh time.

Cochet Not Present
The present champion Henri Cochet, the gifted young French ball boy would not cross the Atlantic to defend his championship this year and with the foreign invasion limited to a somewhat blunted threat led by H. W. Rogers, a native of England, the field seems to be reasonable clear for Tilden to sweep through the tournament right to the threshold of the throne room, if not to the throne itself.

In lawn tennis circles, Tilden is listed as a one to five shot to go through the week and lift the title. He is the recognized class of the tournament, for he heads the United States list of seeded players and is also accorded the honor of heading the draw which includes ninety players, the greatest number ever to start in a tennis title series.

Seeded with Tilden are George M. Lott of Chicago, Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle, N. Y., John Doeg of Santa Monica, John Van Ryn of East Orange, N. J., Berkeley Bell of Austin, Texas, Fritz Marcot of the Bethlehem, Pa., and Gregory S. Mangin also of East Orange.

Sportsmen Will Gather For Izaak Walton League Meet

State Convention Of League Will Be Held At Waynesburg Next Week

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Sept. 7.—With preparations completed for entertainment of at least 5,000 sportsmen from all parts of Pennsylvania as well as from West Virginia, Ohio and other states, everything is in readiness for the annual state convention of the Pennsylvania chapter of the Izaak Walton League of America, which will be held here September 9 and 10. The affair is expected to be the largest gathering of sportsmen ever staged in Western Pennsylvania.

Additional importance is given the meeting by the fact that Dr. Henry Baldwin Ward, national president of the Izaak Walton League of America, will be here for the two day gathering.

Dr. Ward is connected with the University of Illinois at Urbana, Ill., and is an active outdoor sportsman.

M. K. Reckford of Chicago, who was recently appointed national general manager of the Izaak Walton League will also be in attendance.

Besides Dr. Ward and Reckford, such well known notables in the world of outdoor sports as Ozark Ripley, nationally known as a lecturer, writer and adventurer; E. G. Foltz of Akron, O., an official of the American Kennel club and Dr. P. K. Phillips of Cincinnati, O., nationally known bird dog expert will also be here for the convention and will take an active part in judging the field trials to be held for bird and beagle dogs.

Another phase of the state convention here which will be of more than state interest will be the conference of delegates from state chapters of Izaak Walton League in New York, New Jersey, Maryland, West Virginia and Virginia with members of the Pennsylvania state chapter relative to adopting resolutions calling for uniform state game conservation laws in the Middle Atlantic group of states.

Sports Close-Ups—Jack Berg

Jack Berg, the Whitechapel Limited from Britain, was a sensation in Chicago. He was a fighter who started throwing leather with the opening gong and kept tossing until the other fellow collapses the bout ends or the lights go out for them.

Such a fighter is Jack Berg of England aptly named the "Whitechapel Limited." A veritable bulldog in action, Berg has taken this country by storm. His first appearance here some months ago was in Chicago where his busy style made him a real favorite.

Berg then returned to England and recently came back to the U. S. A. to continue his quest of gold and lightweight title honors.

His first match in New York was against Bruce Flowers. New Rochelle negro lightweight who was being primed for a title bout. At the opening bell Berg leaped from his corner and unleashed the wildest flurry of two-listed punching that ever excited the fans of Madison Square Garden. His fighting was sensational. The Garden was seething

Seven New Castle Lads Start Training With Duke Squad

Will Probably Be Seen In Some Of Games During Season

By S. C. ISABELLA
Special Correspondent For The News

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 7.—One week of preparation has been completed by the Duquesne University football squad, under the able tutelage of Head Coach Elmer Layden and Coach Joe Bach, former Notre Dame stars. One hundred and ten candidates answered to the roll call.

Among the fold are found seven former New Castle high stars. Earl "Old" Turk, letter man from last year. Much is expected from Turk. He is being watched very carefully by the coaches. Paul Fahey has been coming along nicely. "Sun" Howley is proving a magnet for Coach Bach's eye. Glen Thomas is being groomed for the pivot position. Harris is working hard for an end. Big George Mitchell works hard against the veterans.

Nick DeCarbo seems to have difficulty to learn the Notre Dame system. He may show his wares in the scrimmage to be held shortly. The system is much different than that used by the able master at New Castle High, Phil. Bridenbaugh.

Sprinkling rules have been set for the gridders to follow during the training season. Every player must be in bed at nine. Up at six-thirty; mass at seven; breakfast at seven-thirty. Initial practice for the day following a day of the lightest sort of drill. Chick McLean indicated here today that his New York University football squad would be sent through its second scrimmage of the season.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 7.—There will be no rest for the weary from this point on for members of Columbia football squad. For coach Crowley has declared that the practices will hit a faster pace, beginning today, with next week finding the men ready for scrimmaging.

RANOVER, N. H., Sept. 7.—Al Marsters, one of the greatest half-backs in the country two seasons ago, will, in all probability, play at quarterback for Dartmouth this year. He has been shifted to that position by Coach Cunnell which seems to bear out the prediction that Cunnell eventually will develop a four-man running and passing backfield on offense.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Still hindered by the hot weather, Army's large squad of football hopefuls have as yet to settle down to serious work. Practice has been confined to physical exercises and Coach Jones has intimated that no heavier work will be attempted until the weather becomes cooler.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Sept. 7.—Left without a kicker by the graduation of Paul Scull, Coach Lou Young was combating the Penn squad here today in hopes of finding a man who could boot the ball with some consistency.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Hugh Mendenhall, veteran halfback on the University of Chicago football team, is ineligible for competition this fall, it was announced today by the athletic department. Failure in a pre-medical course was responsible for the ineligibility. Mendenhall was the only remaining backfield veteran on Coach Stagg's squad.

Pirates-Robins Split Twin Bill

Grimes Is Nosed Out In First But Petty Wins Second

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7.—The Robins opened their final western trip by splitting a twin bill with the Pirates. Brooklyn took the first, 6 to 5, but dropped the second, 8 to 1. Grimes was nosed out in the first, but Jess Petty took over the Robins in the second.

With a home run and two singles in seven times at bat in the two games Babe Herman added a fraction of a point to his lead in his race with Frank O'Doul of Philadelphia for the batting championship. The box scores:

Start Training

Coach Furman Nuss, Has Squad

Of Men Hard At Work

In Conditioning

BETHANY, W. Va., Sept. 7.—Plans for the coming football campaign are now being made in earnest by the athletic officials of Bethany College as the training season approaches.

Head Coach Furman Nuss yesterday had a squad of men at work getting the gridiron in shape for play. Goal posts have been erected, and the white lines laid to mark off the playing area.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" was the adage followed in getting the tackling dummy put in shape. All small stones were removed and a truckload of sawdust spread over the entire lot. When ambitious freshmen start rehearsals next Monday no casualties should result from tackling practice.

Facing an eight game schedule, 531 with four teams that were not met last year carded, Coach Nuss and his assistants have a real job cut out for them in the selection of this year's varsity. However, with a squad of 30 players for training, and many of last year's letter men back, the outlook for a successful season is very bright.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Sept. 7.—More than five and one-half tons of football poundage are scheduled to report to Coach Jimmy Phelan and his assistants at Purdue University September 16, according to figures released here today.

Correct this sentence: "I am asking for criticism," said the amateur author, "and that doesn't mean I want praise."

Its age is a private matter

It is very difficult to discover, by its appearance, how old a Lincoln is. Lincoln believes in making automobiles so beautiful that they are always modern — so durable that they simply won't wear out. The age of a Lincoln is no one's concern—least of all its owner's. On the boulevards a Lincoln of last season and the newest model share honors equally with Lincoln years older than either.

So fine is this car that a year or so of use does not perceptibly detract from any of its splendid qualities. Lincoln owners are often men who can, and do, provide the best professional care for their cars. Sometimes such well-kept cars are available at very attractive prices from Lincoln dealers. The wisdom of investing in such a motor car is quite evident, and shrewd buyers are quick to take advantage of the opportunity.

A few such Lincolns are now to be seen on our floor. Every one is in perfect mechanical condition. We are always glad to demonstrate them to you, without the slightest obligation. Drop in today.

BRITISH TROOPS ON ACTIVE GUARD

(International News Service)
JERUSALEM, Sept. 7.—(Hopes that the worst stages of the conflict between Arabs and Jews in Palestine have now passed were expressed today as the result of the peaceful passing of the Moslem Sabbath.

It was on the occasion of this religious celebration two weeks ago that the first clash broke out, and at each subsequent gathering of Moslems in the famous Mosque of Omar, the population has been fearful lest new uprisings follow.

However, with British machine gun posts established at Jaffa Gate and the Damascus gate, through which Arab worshippers from outlying villages were forced to pass enroute to the temple, the day of worship passed off without incident.

Far From Normal
The situation is still far from normal, however. This is shown by the fact that very few Moslem villagers made the journey to Jerusalem for worship, and a comparatively small number of Jerusalem Arabs attended the ceremony. Whether fear of the British machine guns or other factors kept the Moslems from their worship was not known, but the Mosque of Omar attracted an exceedingly small number of the faithful yesterday.

New details have been received at the skirmish between British troops and heavily armed Bedouin tribes at Kfar at the foot of Mount Tabor. It is now known that at least ten Bedouins were killed, and a number of casualties are reported to have occurred in the British ranks.

Friends will regret to learn that Mrs. Cecelia Fleeger is lying in St.

ronto, Canada, in a critical condition suffering from a severe head wound received in a car smash about 10:15
Tuesday morning at the corner of Center road and the Lake Shore highway at Port Credit.

Mrs. Fleeger was riding in the front seat with her husband Oliver Fleeger, the driver. In the crash, her head went through the windshield, cutting her chin, upper lip and her nose, close to the eye and cracking her jaw.

After first aid treatment Mrs. Fleeger was taken in an ambulance to the hospital.

Mrs. Fleeger's daughter suffered a cut lip. Other occupants were uninjured.

H. Cook of Elmer, Ontario, the driver of the other car will appear cut in front of their car from the corner of the Lake Shore road, both

WHAT IT MEANS TO BE PRESIDENT

BY CALVIN COOLIDGE
ARTICLE I

Presidency Primarily An Executive Office. Has Power More Vast In Its Implications than any Ruling Sovereign

Calvin Coolidge

As I recall the mounting events of the years I spent in Washington I appreciate how impossible it is to convey an adequate realization of the office of president. A few short paragraphs in the Constitution of the United States describe all his fundamental duties. Various laws passed over a period of nearly a century and a half have supplemented his authority. All of his actions can be analyzed. All of his goings and comings can be recited. The details of his daily life can be made known. The effect of his policies on his own country and on the world at large can be estimated. His methods of work, his associates, his place of abode, can all be described. But the relationship created by all these and more, which constitute the magnitude of the office, does not yield to definition. Like the glory of a morning sunrise, it can only be experienced—it cannot be told.

In the discharge of the duties of the office there is one rule of action more important than all the others.
It consists in never doing anything that someone else can do for you.
Like many other good rules, it is proved by its exceptions. But it indicates a course that should be very strictly followed in order to prevent being so entirely devoted to trifling details that there will be little opportunity to give the necessary consideration to policies of larger importance.

Like some other rules, this one has an important corollary which must be carefully observed in order to secure success. It is not sufficient to entrust details to someone else. They must be entrusted to someone who is competent. The presidency is primarily an executive office. It is placed at the apex of our system of government. It is a place of last resort to which all questions are brought that others have not been able to arrange. The ideal way for it to function is to assign to the various positions men of sufficient ability so that they can solve all the problems that arise under their jurisdiction. If there is a troublesome situation in Nic-ragua, a General McCoy can manage it. If we have differences with Mexico, a Morrow can compose them. If there is unrest in the Philippines, a Stimson can quiet them. About a dozen able, courteous, reliable and experienced men in the house and senate can reduce the problems of legislation almost to a vanishing point.

While it is wise for the president to get all the competent advice possible, final judgments are necessarily his own. No one can share with him the responsibility for them. No one can make his decisions for him. He stands at the center of things where no one else can stand. If others make mistakes, they can be relieved oftentimes a remedy can be provided. But he cannot relieve. His decisions are final and usually irrevocable. This constitutes the appalling burden of his office. Not only the welfare of 120, 000,000 of his countrymen, but oftentimes the peaceful relations of the world are entrusted to his keeping.

At the turn of his hand the guns of an enormous fleet would go into action anywhere in the world, carrying the iron might of death and destruction. His appointment confers the power to administer justice, inflict criminal penalties, declare acts of state legislatures and of the congress void, and sit in judgment over the very life of the nation. Practically all the civil and military authorities of the government, except the congress and the courts, hold their office at his discretion. He appoints, and he can remove. The billions of dollars of government revenue are collected and expended under his direction.
The congress makes the laws, but it is the president who causes them to be executed. A power so vast in its implications has never been conferred upon any ruling sovereign.

Presidents Differ In Interpreting Power.

Yet the president exercises his authority in accordance with the Constitution and the law. He is truly the agent of the people, performing such functions as they have intrusted to him. Some presidents have seemed to interpret that as an authorization to take any action which the Constitution, or perhaps the law, does not specifically prohibit. Others have considered that their powers extended only to such acts as were specifically authorized by the Constitution and the statutes. This has always seemed to me to be a hypothetical question.

A Hands-shaking Record.
Soon after eight found me leaning in the White House library in presentation for some public utterance.

which it would be idle to attempt to determine in advance. It would appear to be the better practice to decide each question on its merits as it arises. Jefferson is said to have entertained the opinion that there was no constitutional warrant for enlarging the territory of the United States, but when the actual facts confronted him he did not hesitate to negotiate the Louisiana Purchase. For all ordinary occasions the specific powers assigned to the president will be found sufficient to provide for the welfare of the country. That is all he needs.
All situations that arise are likely to be simplified, and many of them completely solved, by an application of the Constitution and the law. If what they require to be done, is done, there is no opportunity for criticism and it would be seldom that anything better could be devised. A commission once came to me with a proposal for adopting rules to regulate the conduct of its members. As they were evenly divided, each side wished me to decide against the other. They did this because, while it is always the nature of a commissioner to claim that he is entirely independent of the president, he would usually welcome presidential interference with any other commissioner who does not agree with him. In this case it occurred to me that the department of justice should ascertain what the statute setting up this commission required under the circumstances. A reference to the law disclosed that the congress had specified the qualifications of the members of the commission and that the congress had specified the qualifications of the members of the commission, and that they could not by the rule either enlarge or diminish the power of their individual members. So their problem was solved like many others by simply finding out what the law required.

Every day of the presidential life is crowded with activities. When people not accustomed to Washington came to the office, or when I met them on some special occasion, they often remarked that it seemed to be my busy day, to which my stock reply came to bat that all days were busy and there was little difference among them. It was my custom to be out of bed about 6:30, except in the darkest mornings of winter. One of the doormen at the White House was an excellent barber, but I always preferred to shave myself with old-fashioned razors which I knew how to keep in good condition. It was my intention to take a short walk before breakfast, which Mrs. Coolidge and I ate together in our rooms. For me there was fruit and about one-half cup of coffee, with a home-made cereal obtained from boiling together two parts of uncooked wheat with one part rye. To this was added a roll and a strip of bacon, which went mostly to our dogs.

Lunch came at 1 o'clock, at which we usually had guests. It made an opportunity for giving our friends a little more attention than could be extended through a mere handshake.
About an hour was devoted to rest before returning to the office, where the afternoon was reserved for attention to the immense number of documents which pass over the desk of the president. There were all cleaned up each day. Before dinner another work was in order, followed by exercise or some of the vigorous exercises kept in my room. We gathered at the dinner table at 7 o'clock and within three-quarters of an hour work would be resumed with my senographer, to continue until about 10 o'clock. Of course there were many variations, but this was the usual routine.

The White House offices are under the direction of the secretary to the president. They are the center of activities which are world-wide. Reports come in daily from heads of departments, from distant possessions and from foreign diplomats and consular agents scattered all over the earth. A mass of correspondence, from the congress, the officials of the states and the general public, is com-stantly being received. All of this often reaches two thousand pieces in a day. Very much of it is sent at once to the departments to which it refers from which an answer is sent direct to the writer. Other parts are sent to different members of the office staff, and some is laid before the president. While I signed many letters, I did not dictate many. After indicating the nature of the reply, it was usually put into form by some of the secretaries. A great many photographs were sent in to be inscribed, and a constant stream of autographs went to all who wrote for them.

At 10:30 on Tuesdays and Fridays the cabinet meetings were held. These were always very informal. Each member was asked if he had any problem he wished to lay before the president. When I first attended with President Harding at the beginning of a new administration, these were rather numerous. Later they decreased, as each member felt better able to solve his own problems. After entire freedom of discussion, but always without a vote of any kind, I was accustomed to announce what the decision should be.

These points ought to be and never were marked differences of opinion in my cabinet. As their duties were not to advise each other, but to advise the president, they could not disagree among themselves. I rarely failed to accept their recommendations. Sometimes they wished for larger appropriations than the state of the treasury warranted, but they all cooperated most sincerely in the policy of economy and were content with such funds as I could assign to them.
